FROM WASHINGTON.

A Messenger from the Latest Kansas Constitutional Convention—A Peculiar Feature of Lecompton—Arms for the Cavalry—A Decision of the Court of Claims Reversed, &c.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Friday, April 16.

C. A. WOODWORTH, a member of the Mineola or Leavenworth Constitutional Convention, arrived here to-day, bringing dispatches from the Convention, and a copy of the Constitution, which he delivered to Mr. PARROT. He says that the organization of the Militia by the Free-State men is so complete that the exact number of voters and the political sentiments of each voter in the Territory are ascertained, and that the Pro-Slavery men are only two thousand. He further says that an important element of the dispute over the Lecompton Constitution has been overlooked—viz.: the charters granted by that instrument to bridge companies, banks, &c.—all Lecompton concerns, which, if the Constitution is accepted, will have vested rights which cannot be taken from them except at their own price.

The Kansas Conference Committee did nothing to-day, but fixed a meeting at 10 o'clock to-morrow. Mr. STEPHENS was not present, but was confined to his house by serious indisposition. The suggestion was informally made by Mr. SEWARD that both the Senate and House bill should be discarded, and action based on the Leavenworth Constitution. It is the belief of a member of the Committee that a new plan or none must be adopted.

DIMMICK, of Pennsylvania, a Lecompton Democrat, is so ill that his life is thought to be in danger.

Mr. STANTON, Chairman of the Tariff Investigating Committee, has to-day written a letter denying the rumor that Gov. BANKS has been here. O.

[FROM THE REPORTER FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

WASHINGTON, Friday, April 16.

The Committee of Conference on the Kansas bill met at 11 o'clock this morning. Mr. STEPHENS was absent in consequence of illness, and the Committee adjourned to meet at 11 o'clock to-morrow. Nothing transpired to indicate whether any agreement can be effected.

The Board appointed by the Secretary of War, consisting of Lieutenant-Colonel J. E. JOHNSTON, Major BELL, Lieutenant-Colonel MAY, Major MCRAE and Capt. WHITALL, to examine the improved firearms invented and patented by Capt. J. N. WARD have made a report. They express the opinion that the arrangement for attaching tape primers to small-arms, called WARD's hammer, is a great improvement on any other method known, and recommend that it be applied to all small arms, excepting revolvers, and that WARD's cone-seat be adopted with magazine hammer. They consider WARD's new bayonet clasp inferior to the one now in use, and that WARD's breech-loading carbine, called Skinner and Tryons carbine, and the revolving pistol, known as North and Savage's six-chambered revolving pistol, are unsuited to the public service.

A report from the Court of Claims, adverse to Hon M. CASSIUS, having been taken up in Committee of the Whole to-day, a motion was made that, instead, a bill for his relief be reported to the House, in effect to abrogate the decision of that Court. The power to do so was questioned, but Mr. NICHOLS, Chairman, decided the motion in order, and the bill was finally passed. This is the first of the kind, and is considered as an important precedent affecting all claims rejected by the Court.

Mr. KILGORE, of Indiana, voted against the Committee of Conference on the Kansas bill, but his name does not, as it should, appear among the proceedings of the House on Wednesday.

One of the bill, which passed the Senate to-day gives EDWARD M. KEMP $20,000 for a machine for extracting gold and other metals.

XXXVth CONGRESS......First Session.

SENATE... WASHINGTON, Friday, April 16.

The Senate passed thirty-two private bills to day and then adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Friday, April 16.

The House was mainly engaged on private bills to-day.

Mr. CLINGMAN, of North Carolina, in responding to a former remark of Mr. LEITER, explained that he lef the Whig Party because it became Abolitionized and since then he had found Captain RYNDERS to be an honorable man who had been badly slandered.

Mr. GIDDINGS recollected when he and Mr. CLINGMAN stood side by side, and added that his leaving that party was for his own good.

Mr. CLINGMAN replied that the gentleman's party had been beaten ever since he left it, and their vote on the Crittenden substitute was a good proof of their penitence.

The colloquy caused much merriment. Adjourned

The Conference Committee—More Facts About the Printing Plunder—The Deficiency Bills, &c., &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, April 15, 1858.

Some disappointment has been manifested, more on the part of the Democrats, however, than the Opposition, that Mr. GIDDINGS was not placed on the Conference Committee, instead of Mr. HOWARD, of Michigan. It was urged on the Speaker by Democrats, to appoint GIDDINGS, for what reason you must indulge in a Yankee habit to find out, and some of them say that Mr. ORR committed a mistake in not selecting him. The Republicans, on the contrary, appear to be better satisfied with the present arrangement than they would have been with the other; certainly the more moderate of them are. It is acknowledged that the Speaker has constituted the Committee in perfect fairness. Mr. ENGLISH will of course be the pioneer upon the Commitee in proposing modifications, since on the one hand Messrs. GREEN and HUNTER are content with the Senate bill as it is, and Messrs. SEWARD and HOWARD are equally well satisfied with that of the House. The best opinion I can find in circulation is, that the Committee will not be able to effect anything. I am not sure that Southern men generally, and particularly Messrs. HUNTER and STEPHENS, desire the admission of Kansas strongly enough to make many concessions, even to relieve the Administration from its embarrassments. Mr. HUNTER is not what may be termed an ardent admirer of the Adminstration, by any means; and I doubt if he would sacrifice any of his strong South-side notions in order to settle the Kansas controversy. Mr. STEPHENS, though courteous and fair, is quite as extreme in his ideas as HUNTER; GREEN is more of an Administration man than either.

Mr. TAYLOR's report from the Printing Investigation Committee will be delayed a little by that gentleman's indisposition, since it involves a good deal of labor yet. Among the striking facts which will be presented will be a simple statement of what has been the cost of the printing and binding of the Thirty third and Thirty-fourth Congresses. Your readers will hardly believe that it amounts to considerably over the enormous sum of two millions of dollars for each Congress! Over a million dollars a year paid for the printing of Congress, not including any of the Department printing! On this statement, it is easily credible that the Committee can effect a saving of half a million, by the establishment of a Printing Bureau. The public money has been running out of this leak at an immensely greater rate than in any other branch of the Government. As an illustration of the style in which profits are made in this business, the Committee find that last Winter the binder of the Senate sold his contract to another man, and received a bonus of thirty odd thousand dollar therefor. The second man sold out to a third, stipulating for a share of the profits, which made his receipts about the same, and the third man, who did the work, of course had his profits to make also. The net profit of all these on the price paid for the work, was between forty and fifty per cent.! It was certainly time that this Augean stable was cleared out; but I suspect that other expenditures of Congress also need the scrutiny of an investigation. It is a conviction of this sort which actually endangers the Deficiency bill. A number of items in that bill are of a questionable character, and belong to a class of expenditures by Congress which a number of Senators and Representatives are determined to cut off; but if the Senate strikes them out, and thus affords the House another chance at the bill, there is every probability that it will be defeated.

Poor BENNETT's article on Mrs. GWIN's ball has excited universal amazement and indignant censure here. I presume Senator and Mrs. GWIN can survive and treat with contempt all such gross and abusive stuff, for which people look in vain to find a motive. Wasn't BENNETT invited? Or was it because his correspondent went as Rob Roy McGregor, and that he disliked to be thus reminded of that "Land o'cakes?" It is impossible to account for the vagaries of the Herald; but on behalf of one of the gentle men whom it "repudiates" as a correspondent, Mr EVANS, it is worth while to say that he "repudiated" the Herald some months ago, and that he had apparently taken sufficient pains to let it be known that no person would make the mistake of supposing him to be still connected with that paper.

The various parties who are here waiting for the President's determination with reference to the new regiments are getting somewhat disgusted with the delay, and privately express opinions concerning it which I suppose they do not want reported. O.

Mr. VAN VALKENBURGH attacked the Democracy with much energy for the late day at which they brought in important bills, and the present attempt to embarrass necessary measures by dragging in with them party and personal schemes.

Mr. DAYTON also severely denounced the course o the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means.

Mr. LANING replied, in defence of the course of the Committee.

After a long debate on the motion of Mr. VAN VALKENBURG, the rules were suspended only so far as related to Annual Tax and Canal Debt bills.

Mr. LANING made three attempts to connect with them the bill transferring power over contracts to the Canal Board, but all failed.

Masquerade Balls—An Answer to "Lex."

NEW-YORK, Friday, April 16, 1858.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

A communication appears in the TIMES of yesterday morning, wherein Mr. "Lex" arrogates to himself the privilege of reading Justice WELSH, of the Lower Police Court, a lecture upon his ignorance of the criminal law of the land, and attempts to instruct everybody as to the liabilities of the Director of the Academy of Music, and the immunities of those who may attend the Masquerade Balls which he proposes to give at the Academy.

Mr. "Lex" is considerably behind the times in his knowledge of the law respecting the prevention of masquerades and disguises. He refers the victim of his legal wrath to the act of April 25, 1829. He should have searched the statute a trifle further, and he might have found another act, confirming in every particular the words of Judge WELSH.

The act is dated Jan. 28, 1845, and is "An Act to prevent persons appearing disguised and armed," (Vide Gen. Stat. N. Y., Blatchford's ed., 1829-1851, p. 389,) the sixth section whereof reads as follows:

"SEC. 6. Every assemblage in public houses, or other places, of three or more persons disguised as aforesaid," (i. e. having their faces painted, discolored, covered or concealed, or being otherwise disguised so as to prevent them from being identified, vide § 1, same act,) "is hereby declared to be unlawful, and every individual so disguised, present thereat, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction, shall be punished by imprisonment in the County Jail not exceeding one year."

Will Mr. "Lex" acknowledge now that the Justice whom he insinuates is no lawyer, simply because he is a Justice, has proved himself the better and more learned lawyer of the two?

An absurd charge has been publicly made in England, against Mr. Edward Miall, Editor of the (London) Nonconformist. A foreigner, styling himself the Baron De Camin, has been delivering lectures in Birmingham on the "Errors of Romanism," and, by way of illustrating the growth of Jesuit principles in England, asserted that Mr. Miall was an enrolled Jesuit, and "had signed the bond with his own blood." Mr. Miall was appealed to, and denied the charge, wishing at the same time to meet the Baron publicly. The affair is the subject of newspaper comment.

The minimum price fixed by the India House was 97, and the tenders at and above that point amounted in the aggregate to £4,800,000. They ranged from 97 to 102, two or three persons having offered the latter price for some moderate sums. It is believed that the average will prove to be about 98. There were some large offers under 97. As soon as the adjudication of the £4,800,000 had taken place, the new security was negotiated in the Stock Exchange, and numerous transactions were effected at 98@98⅛, the final quotation being 98. The work of taking in the Atlantic cable was proceeding with dispatch on both the Niagara and Agamemnon, and the whole was expected to be on board by the 10th of May.

It is intended that the two vessels, which are expected to be completely ready by the end of May, shall before commencing to lay the cable, proceed to sea and in the deep water about 300 miles from the Irish coast rehearse a series of experiments in paying out and hauling in and put to a practical test several suggestions and appliances that have been proposed by various ingenious persons. The two ships will then return to England and report progress, and should the experiments show that improvement or alteration is desirable there will be time to get it effected so as to enable the expedition to make their final start at the most favorable time of the year.

There is no difficulty in obtaining the visé promptly during office hours. G. M. DALLAS.

The expense of the visé of the French Consul must be paid by the applicant.

From Berne the following telegram, of this day's date, has been received: 'The French Minister has again insisted that the Federal Government shall establish Consuls at Chaudefonds and Basle, on the ground that those consulates are indispensable for facilitating the visé of passports for French subjects as well as for foreigners in Switzerland.'"

PARIS, Thursday, April 1, 1858.

It is a difficult task, in the face of the first Spring sun, to sit down to talk with one's readers. When, after a two months' persistent but moderate cold, the elements suddenly relax, and a warm sun, and birds, and leaves, and flowers, and the ladies in their Spring toilet, and the open carriages, and the tables and chairs before the cafés, suddenly make their advent, it is doing violence to nature to resist the invitation out of doors. I can see all this out the window, but I am not going to give you a paragraph of exclamations and sighs on the charms of the budding Spring, because that is old; every one knows that the first Spring sun is more charming than any of its predecessors; that the first rose the first timid flower of the wood, the first perfume of the blossoming trees, are the most lovely within the memory of man. Each opening season is always more lovely than the preceding, because it is always fresh, always charming, always welcome. So, I stop here, and stand speechless before the Englishman, who said this morning in my hearing, that, if the hot sun continued much longer he would go back to London, where it did rain, occasionally.

I commence my budget to-day with the eternal "saw," LAMARTINE. In America you have erected to LAMARTINE a pedestal of such dimensions that I dare scarcely write the name in your presence without taking off my hat. During the exciting days of February, by a few words eloquently spoken, LAMARTINE saved the city of Paris from the rule of the red flag, and then prepared the way for the present rule of despotism. The first was his only act as a statesman which entitled him to the thanks of the nation, while his faults toward the great Republican Party were manifold. Must the whole nation be forever compelled to remain on its knees, with its pocket-book open, before the poet of Maçon, because of those few words spoken at the Hotel de Ville? What is there exceptional in M. LAMARTINE, or exceptional in his political history, that the nation should be charged with his keeping? But it is not his keeping alone that he asks. He has more than a million of debts, incurred partly by extravagance, and partly by a very laudable desire to preserve a costly homestead left to him by his ancestors. He first tried the publication of a monthly Cours Familier de Littérature, anticipating a sale such as had never before been reached by any publication. In order to effect this he issued calls which sounded more like the plaints of the mendicant than the legitimate puffs of the merchant trying to place his goods, and this was the first step toward that loss of dignity which is an unpardonable crime in France. The periodical did not gain an extended circulation, for the very valid reason that it was uninteresting, and because modern France is infected with a terrible realism on the question of equilibrium between the article bought and the money paid. "There are people for which nothing is sacred," and M. LAMARTINE's literary and political reputation seems to be one of these. When a little dried-up old woman sits in the public street pretending to sell little dried-up apples from a basket, you give her a cent, but you don't take her apples. In that case the question of mendicity is understood between you; but then there is no loss of dignity on her part, because she has neither saved her country from anarchy, nor is she the greatest, the richest, the most magnificent poet of the State. When, after the first year of publication had expired, M. LAMARTINE found that the subscribers to his Journal were diminishing instead of increasing, he addressed to the irreverential—that is the word—a begging letter more undignified, more cringing than the first. For a gallant man, enjoying the luxury of a town house and a baronial castle in the country, with thousands of acres of beautiful land, and hundreds of tenants, this was too much even for those who had most sympathy with him, and a last wound was thus made to his dignity. Poor GERARD DE NERVAL, a cotemporary poet, with a stomach empty from want, rather than descend to the humiliation of begging, stole away and hanged himself in the dark stairway of an obscure house to which he was a stranger. He did not even have room enough of his own in which to hang himself. But to conclude this subject: The neighbors of M. LAMARTINE in the country, seeing that his literary labor was not likely to liberate him from his debts, proposed a sale of his fine estate at Maçon by lottery. The proposition was accepted by M. LAMARTINE, and arrangements were in progress for that purpose, when some of his friends at Paris, anxious to regulate definitively his pecuniary position, proposed a national subscription for his relief. Application was made to the Emperor for permission, and His Majesty not only accorded it, but charged his Minister to write the Committee a letter, which letter is so flattering for the fallen patriot, that the first and only impression made by its perusal is that it is a bid for M. LAMARTINE's support to the Government. You will see this letter and appreciate it yourself. His Majesty begged to head the list of subscription. So that now we are about to have the last grand act in the history of M. LAMARTINE's humiliations. For the next year we will have his name thrown in our faces hourly in connection with this begging scheme on a large scale, and then it is to be hoped that when he becomes securely settled in his old chateau, with his feet on the "andirons of his ancestors," and in the midst of his menagerie of grayhounds, he will give us something new from his pen really worthy of his great name and his great talent

From the nobility of talent we pass to the nobility of blazoned arms and quartered escutcheons. The world of false counts—for it is a world at Paris—is in a state of terror bordering on desperation. The real nobility of the country, alarmed at the rapid increase of titles in the saloons of the city, and at the singular revelations so often made before the tribunals of the country, demanded of the Government a law to suppress, by fine and imprisonment, the assumption, without right, of titles of nobility. A bill has been presented to the Legislature, and will perhaps become a law this week, which fixes the limits of the fine at 500 to 5,000 francs, and of the imprisonment at two months to two years. The Government, willing to conciliate the legitimists when it can be done so cheaply, will execute the law in good faith, and then it becomes a law which adds another retrograde step to the legislation of the country; for all laws which serve to draw lines of distinction in society, and especially those in support of an exclusive aristocracy, are an evident step backward. One-half the titles that are mouthed out by proud domestics at the doors of the saloons of the city are assumed; and as no man would assume a title who was not deficient somewhere in the region of the intellect, they and their titles are always ridiculous; and thus to let this branch of the nobility live, would be to throw ridicule upon all titles, and their bearers would finally be brought to the level of the plain bourgeoisie. In this view of the case, it is to be regretted that the Government did not indulge this class longer in their sweet delusion; nothing is so powerful in France as ridicule, and they furnished a lever to the leveling system which nothing could resist. Moreover, this class furnished to the public a source of amusement by their absurd pretensions, and novelists and dramatists a prolific subject for cheap romances and amusing vaudevilles. The authorities are thus going to deprive authors of an essential institution, and ambitious young foreign ladies of their last hope of attaching Princess or Countess to their names. But it is contended that the law cannot be put in force; so much the better. It is said there are titled families in the Faubourg St. Germain which date back a century, and whose branches are extensively intermarried in real titled families, and yet their title is an assumed one. Such as these it will be difficult to attack, as also those foreign assumed titles, which are brought to Paris, to be aired in our aristocratic parlors. The Emperor, with his democratic education, is said to have no feeling whatever on this subject, and yields entirely to outside influences,

The Count MIGEON—another false Count, since the title was bought of the Pope for the sum of $180, the price of a good horse—who was condemned lately by a country tribunal to one month's imprisonment for an illegal wearing of the badge of the Legion of Honor, has fled to Switzerland to escape the imprisonment. The latest delay fixed by the Court for the commencement of the term of imprisonment was the 21st of March, and the day previously the Count fled. His conduct is the more singular as he is a candidate for reëlection to the Corps Legislatif.

In the elections which are to take place in Paris the 18th of this month for the Legislature, it is proposed to run M. JULES FAVRE on one of the Republican tickets. This gentleman, who, it will be recollected, defended ORSINI, has been unwell ever since the trial. He says that never, in his whole course as a lawyer, had he taken more interest in a client, never had he felt more sympathy in his misfortunes, and moreover he had great confidence that his head would be saved from the block. It must be admitted, however, that much of the distinguished lawyer's sympathy was inspired by the dignified conduct and the gentlemanly manners of the prisoner. It was ORSINI's intention to make his own defence before the Jury; but this M. FAVRE persuaded him not to do.

It is true that Austria has had a diplomatic correspondence with France, on the subject of the publication of ORSINI's letter to the Emperor. That letter, and his words to the Judge on the trial, have produced a good deal of feeling in Lombardy, so much, indeed that the Austrian police are more actively employed than they have been for some time. A good many arrests have just been made in Milan on account of this affair. At Turin a biography and portrait of ORSINI have appeared, in which he is vindicated from the charge of being an assassin.

It is more than ever evident that the late attempt was a decree of the Carbonari. I stated to you before the trial came on, that DE RUDIO had confessed that they all belonged to a club of 500 who had sworn to take the life of NAPOLEON. This was a rumor of the moment, to which subsequent developments have given consistence and form. The Italian Society of the Carbonari is much more numerous than the figure indicated, and M. PIETRI, our Corsican Prefect of Police at the time, was the very man, as a member of that Society, to obtain the secret from DE RUDIO. Thus this prisoner declared that it was the work of a Society, and that it would be repeated until they were successful. The same thing was asserted by PIERRI, as he marched up the steps of the guillotine. The attempts would only grow more dangerous with each repetition. So that NAPOLEON has reason for taking extraordinary precautions, and it is more than probable that he will make some effort to relieve the present condition of Italy.

I am informed on tolerably good authority that the last letter of ORSINI to the Emperor was a lengthy document which had been written before the attempt, and which contained an argument in favor of the cessation of the French occupation at Rome, and the Emperor's interference in another form in the affairs of that country. The letter was interlined to suit the altered condition of the writer, and proved by its tone and sentiment that he was not an ordinary assassin; for, as all readers of history know, the men who have had the courage to relieve the earth of tyrants by their own hand, have always been glorified.

DE RUDIO, it is said, would not have been pardoned if it were not that the French Government wished to put the English law to the test. The Derby Cabinet say that the English law is sufficient without any change, to meet all such cases as that of BERNARD, and therefore that the Palmerston Conspiracy bill is superfluous. The French Government do not believe this, and to put the matter to the test, they will sacrifice the judgment they have passed against DE RUDIO, in order to try the English law; for his testimony against BERNARD as one of the accomplices will be positive and direct, and cannot be escaped.

We have to record this week two other deaths, victims of the attempt of the Rue Lepelletier. But the causes of their death were quite opposite. A young girl who was wounded in front of the opera by the explosion of the bombs, has just died in the hospital Lariboisière; while a soldier who was at the execution, near the guillotine, has just died from the effects of the impression he received at the moment the heads of the prisoners fell under the axe.

The French have given us, this week, a funny demonstration of their love of theatrical display, on the subject of the inauguration of the new Boulevard de Sebastopol. When the grand street was nearly opened up to the line of the old Boulevards, a screen of boards was erected as high as the house-tops, so that the crowd passing along the other Boulevards could not see into the new one. This screen was to be let down the day of the opening celebration, at a given word, and then the grand new street, several miles in length, and hewn straight through the centre of the city, was to come suddenly in view. The celebration was to have taken place last Monday, and on Saturday night previous, after midnight, and after all the crowds had got away from the theatres, which abound in that part of the town, the authorities proceeded to a rehearsal of the Monday's performance! The whole street was illuminated, the flags were hoisted, and then the great wooden screen was gently let down. After enjoying, for a time, the general effect, the screen was raised again to its place, and the illuminations were extinguished. Report does not say whether the author was called before the curtain or not; but it is probable he was not, since this labor was found unfinished, and the celebration was postponed for a week. The Emperor, the National Guard and the Army of Paris, will be present at the celebration; triumphal arches, flags, speeches and an evening illumination, will form the principal features.

In connection with the Boulevard de Sebastopol I have an item of American news to give you. Mr. Phalen, who has been authorized by the Commissioners of your Central Park to consult with the most scientific European artists on the subject of the decoration of that enterprise, and if possible to employ an able man to go over and take charge of the work, has made that offer to the gentleman who executed the decorations of the Bois de Bologne. But although he would be delighted to accept the offer, he is bound to the Government to conduct the Boulevard de Sebastopol, of which he is chief engineer, to a termination. (There yet remains a portion of this great street on the Luxembourg side of the river to terminate.) This gentleman has, however, given advice to Mr. Phalen in regard to the new park, and thinks, if he could find time to go over to New-York, that he could lay out the work and perhaps finish it in three months.

A duel was fought here this week, in the environs of the city, by two American gentlemen, Mr. Calhoun, of South Carolina, Secretary of Legation, and Mr. [illegible], of New-York. They fought with pistols, and I am informed that a difficulty having arisen after the first fire, the seconds interfered and arrested the conflict. I refrain from a further history of the affair, as I have understood it is to be officially published. The duel originated in a conflicting admiration for the fair sex. Mr. Calhoun was the challenging party, having been struck by his adversary.

The "getting up" of the new French Embassy to London will exceed anything for brilliancy that has ever preceeded it in the history of diplomatic magnificence. The Duke's official carriage will surpass in beauty and cost that made for Marshal Soult and the coronation of Queen Victoria. The new Minister's income is now as follows: Annual salary as Ambassador 300,000 francs; for installation, or what was called under our old diplomatic law "outfit," 100,000 francs; to support the title of Duke of Malakoff, 100,000 francs a year; as Marshal of France 40,000 francs; as Senator 30,000 francs; and after these several smaller sums for the various decorations he wears. The total is about 580,000 francs a year—or $115,000. As he is a bachelor, the Baroness Malaret, wife of the first Secretary of Legation, a lady eminently qualified, will do the honors of the Embassy. The Marshal has taken Sofston-House, Belgrave-square, for his new residence.

M. De Persigny, will not, for the present, be placed in any new position. He is already Senator and member of the Privy Council, and as these are mere negative positions, without labor or responsibility, they will occupy as much of his time as his state of mind will permit. It is no longer a secret that this gentleman has moments of temporary derangement in which he is unfit for all mental labor; it was, in part from this cause that he quit the Ministry of the Interior, and partly from the same cause that he quit London.

The cannon made to the order of Queen Victoria, to be presented by her to the Emperor Napoleon, have arrived in France, and were presented yesterday to His Majesty. These arms are not only of superior workmanship, but are very curious as well, and excited a good deal of attention from His Majesty and the officers admitted to the Palace court to view them. They bear the inscription, To Napoleon III., from Queen Victoria.

Lord Brougham appeared two days ago in his seat in the Hall of the Academy of Sciences of this city, and Lord Palmerston is expected here in a day or two on a visit to Napoleon. MALAKOFF.

The Emancipation of the Serfs in Russia.

A letter from St. Petersburg, dated March 21, in Le Nord gives the following interesting information:

The Committee for the government of Nijni-Novgorod, charged to investigate and prepare plans for the emancipation of the serfs, held its first sitting on the 3d instant, that being the anniversary of Alexander II.'s accession to the throne. General Mouravieff, the Military Governor of the Province, made a remarkable speech, from which we make the following extract:

"Gentlemen, imbue yourselves with the spirit of your mission. He who holds in His hand the hearts of kings has called you to accomplish a mighty work, to give freedom to those who do not possess it, and if such be your mission, think on the greatness of the part that Providence has assigned you here below. Be not unworthy of it; do not prefer your own material interests to the welfare of the millions of human beings whom their lot has made dependent upon you. Moral interests take precedence of material ones, and you ought to prove it by your acts. I said moral interests: yes, gentlemen, the solution of the question now occupying us will assuredly raise us to a higher degree of moral civilization; it will enhance the value and exalt the moral dignity of the class called to fulfill this work with a self denial based on the consciousness of human rights.

"Amongst the people whose material existence we have to secure, there is many an individual who content with his present position desires no other. Glory and honor to the owners of such individuals! But their happiness is merely fortuitous. Now, gentlemen, you are called to substitute certainty for chance, and remove from the administration which relates to an entire class of persons everything of an arbitrary character. But success will only be obtained in this, so long as we continue to see in a man a mere productive power similar to that of animals in general; we shall only obtain success by resuscitating, I may say by restoring, the human dignity which had been lost, and by invoking the assistance of free labor. It will be only then that an intelligent and equitable application, unaccompanied by any arbitrary requirement, will awaken the living strength of the nation, and will instill life into what now appears to us to be dead.

"Do not separate, then, from your material calculations the respect due to the rights of man; render to man that which belongs to man and you will justify the confidence of the sovereign of the nation. I may say more—you will justify the expectation of the whole world, whose eyes are fixed upon you at this moment. Your work will draw down upon you the blessings of the Omnipotent and those of your native humanity, whilst history will rank you among the promoters of justice, among those who love their brothers, and will name you as the founders of your country's prosperity."

A Moscow correspondent of Le Nord says that an important ukase has been signed, the effect of which is to preclude landed proprietors henceforth from converting their peasants into domestic serfs, whilst they are still to be empowered as heretofore, to convert their domestic serfs into peasants. The Government will thus follow up its idea of transforming the peasant serfs into peasant proprietors. The emancipation of the numerous class of serfs attached, not to the glebe, but to the person of a master, is attended with great difficulties, and to this day neither government nor nobility have come to any decision on the subject. The government by the decree referred to has at least endeavored to prevent this class of serfs from increasing.

A letter from Moscow states that the government has applied to the various mortgage banks and credit institutions of the country to obtain statistical returns of all the small estates belonging to the poorer class of nobility, and mortgaged to the credit banks, having from five to twenty five peasant serfs attached to them. The object proposed is to disengage these peasants from the small estates, and to establish them upon the crown lands.

The Arrangements for the next Atlantic Telegraph Expedition.

From the London News.

The arrangements preparatory to making another attempt to connect Europe and America by telegraph during the present Summer, are progressing actively.

The cable, which has been stored during the Winter in the tanks erected by the permission of the Government in the Keyham Steamyard, Devonport, is now being coiled on board her Majesty's ship Agamemnon and the United States frigate Niagara, both of which ships have again been devoted to this work by their respective goverments. Up to Thursday 320 miles had been coiled on board the Agamemnon, and 84 on board the Niagara. A large number of men are engaged in the coiling from the hours of 5 A. M. to 7 P. M. every day, Sundays excepted, and the whole is expected to be on board by the 10th May. The additional 900 miles of cable, recommended by the directors in their report to the shareholders, is in process of manufacture by Glass, Elliot & Co.; a sufficient amount of the new capital having been subscribed for the purpose. It will have been completed and coiled on board by the second week in May.

The Scientific Committee appointed to consult and carry on experiments, with regard to the paying out machinery, have at length so far decided upon the principle of the sheaves and retarders to be used on the present occasion as to be enabled to order one complete machine, which will be finished in about a fortnight, and which will then be set up at the works of Messrs. Easton & Amos, and subjected to severe experimental tests. When this is done it is the intention of the Directors to invite, by circular, as many engineers and machinists, of known ability and eminence, as possible, to visit and inspect the entire apparatus, during a certain fixed period, and to solicit as a favor their critical observations and suggestions upon its form and construction.

If no good cause be shown for further important alteration in the machinery, it is intended that the Niagara and Agamemnon, which it is estimated will have been completely fitted and ready by the last week in May, shall, before commencing to lay the cable, proceed to sea, and in the deep water, about 100 miles from the Irish coast, rehearse a series of experiments in paying out and hauling in, and put to practical test several suggestions and appliances that have been proposed to the Company by various ingenious persons who have taken an active interest in the success of the enterprise. The two ships will then return to England and report progress, and under this arrangement, should the experiments show that important improvement or alteration is desirable in any of the apparatus, there will be time to get it effected so as to enable the expedition to make their final start at a period of the year when, according to the unanimous testimony of all whose experience of the weather in the North Atlantic has been consulted, the sea and air are likely to be in the most favorable condition for facilitating the success of the undertaking.

The Agamemnon is now being put in commission, and will be commanded by Captain George W. Preedy, and the Admiralty have, in addition to the Agamemnon, appropriated the Gorgon, Commander Dayman, and another paddle-wheel steamer, to the service of the Atlantic Company, the latter as auxiliary to the Agamemnon in case of her needing assistance, and the former to keep the sailing course, there being a possibility that the compasses of the ships containing the cable may be affected by the proximity of so large a mass of iron. It is expected that the United States Government also will shortly dispatch to England a large paddle-wheel steamer on a similar service in respect to the Niagara. Thus there will be a total of five ships-of-war engaged on the present occasion to realize this great international work.

In the Electrical Department the Directors have called to the aid of Mr. Whitehouse the services of Professor Thomson, LL.D., Mr. Walker, F. R. S., and Mr. Henley. It is also their intention to consult other electricians and telegraphists with a view to secure the greatest attainable amount of speed in working through the cable, and the best practicable form of apparatus for transmitting signals.

Successful Cotton Cultivation in Africa.

Mr. Thomas Clegg, of Manchester, has published an interesting letter in the London News, describing the result of the efforts which have been made by him for the last seven or eight years to promote the cultivation of cotton in Africa, with the view of putting down the Slave-trade, by showing the native chiefs and others "that it was their interest to employ their people, instead of making war upon each other for the sake of getting a colorable right or pretext for selling into Slavery the prisoners taken in such marauding expeditions."

An opening experiment at Sierra Leone failed, and he decided to go at once to the interior cotton fields, and to the residence of the chiefs about Abbeokuta. Finding, however, that the European agents either died off or had to return home, several young Africans were selected by the Missionary Society, and sent over to England, at the expense of the Native Agency Committee, to be educated and instructed in the best method of cleaning the cotton without injury to the fibre. The African Native Agency Committee of London also supplied packing presses and other machinery, and Mr. Platt supplied cotton gins, goods and money to purchase the cotton with.

Up to the 1st ult. he had sent out 157 cotton gins, costing from £3 17s. 6d. to £10 10s. each. He has entered into correspondence with upwards of 76 native and other African traders, 21 or 22 of whom being chiefs, and many of them having begun to consign their cotton and other produce to him. Three manufacturers, of Manchester, have sent out 250 cotton gins, and the natives are at present, with their present appliances, able to turn out yearly 4,368,000 lbs. of clean cotton, equal to 10,000 American bales. This he regards as a rare instance of rapid development of a particular trade, and, after a view of all the known facts, he "can clearly see a prospect of the slave-trade being entirely starved out." The cotton, from whatever part of Africa it comes, will invariably sell in Liverpool for 2d. or 3d. per pound more than East India cotton. For some years it has never cost more than ½d. per pound in the seed; more has been offered at that price than the agents, chiefs and dealers have been able to buy up; and it can be laid down in Liverpool at 4½d. per pound, while it is now worth 7d., and not long ago was worth 9d., per pound. Mr. Clegg says that, believing in the goodness of the cause, he is anxious to raise £2,040 for the establishment of four new cotton stations.

Lord Rosse's Alleged Prediction of Excessive Heat.

From the Dublin Evening Post.

For some months past idle rumors have prevailed to the effect that the Earl Rosse has declared it as his belief that the approaching Summer would be one of the hottest seasons ever witnessed in Ireland. Upon this absurd report another was founded, that the noble Earl had erected houses for the shelter of his cattle from the expected tropical heat of the Summer; and that many gentlemen, relying upon the distinguished reputation of Lord Rosse as an astronomer, had followed his example in preparing accommodation to stall-feed their stock during the hot season. It is a lamentable evidence of credulity, even among educated people, that all those ridiculous tales were believed by many. But they are now completely disposed of in the following communication which we have received this morning from Lord Rosse:

The Castle, Parsonstown, March 25.

Lord Rosse presents his compliments to the Editor of the Evening Post, and, having observed a quotation from the Limerick Reporter in which his name is associated with some conjectures as to the approaching season, he begs to say that he has never expressed any opinion on the subject.

Outrages by American Seamen in Liverpool.

At the Liverpool Police Court, on the 1st inst., an American sailor, named Michael Warey, was brought before Mr Mansfield, charged with having murdered a Dutchman, named Wm. Schomegan, a shoemaker. The parties met in a casino on Wednesday night, and had a quarrel about their different countries, when the prisoner drew his knife and plunged it into the heart of the deceased, killing him on the spot. He then ran at several other persons, and wounded them, one in four places. The prisoner was sent for trial on two charges—one for murder, the other for stabbing. His worship said he would communicate with the Home Secretary, in order to have the prisoner tried in London, as the next assizes were several months off.

Another American seaman, named George Washington Dixon, was also brought up, charged with shooting a colored man named Jeffrey Jackson, during what he called a "muss," in Banastre-street, on Wednesday night. Jackson was wounded in the arm, chest, and thigh; a surgeon extracted a ball weighing 50 grains from the chest. Mr. Mansfield, in committing the prisoner for trial, said that the frequency of outrages by foreign seamen in Liverpool must be stopped. He should also advise that this case be tried at the Central Criminal Court in London.

The Mutiny and Murder on Board the American Whaler "Junior."

FURTHER PARTICULARS—EIGHT OF THE PIRATES IN CUSTODY.

From the Melbourne Age, Feb. 15.

A fearful tragedy has been effected on board the Junior, American whaler, from New Bedford. As the particulars are of great interest, and a portion of the mutineers (half of their number) have been taken prisoners in the colony of Victoria, we are glad to be able to append the following résumé of the proceedings from the English summary, prepared by the Sydney Morning Herald: "From the evidence already taken in this case, it is clearly one of the most extraordinary on record. There have been many acts of mutiny and piracy at sea which have been attended with greater bloodshed, but few with so many peculiarities. The original mutineers were but a small section of the crew—in fact, only five men out of thirty. The names of the five mutineers were Cyrus Plumer, John Hall, Richard Cartha, Cornelius Burns and William Herbert. The rising was during the night which followed last Christmas Day, but the five confederates had armed themselves and acted in concert, while the Captain and officers, against whom they directed their attacks, were wholly unprepared. The first intention, according to the evidence, would seem to have been that all the officers should be killed, yet only the Captain and third mate perished. The second mate, having escaped the first crush, his life was spared. The chief officer escaped to the hold badly wounded, indeed, but without mortal hurt, and remained there five days ere he was discovered. By this time the men's passions were cooled, and he also was spared, although he seems to have owed his life in a great measure to the intervention of the ringleader Plumer. The revolted seamen required his services, too, in order to navigate the ship to the Australian coast, which they were desirous of reaching. The conspiracy would seem to have originated with the five men alone, and before leaving the ship one of them, in the name and presence of the rest, made an entry in the log declaratory to their sole guilt and responsibility. According to the evidence, however, there was on the part of others of the crew a complicity after the fact, amounting not only to a moral but a legal participation in the offences committed by the first mutineers. Thus, at the orders of Plumer, others of the crew stood by with arms in their hands ready to kill the chief officer if he showed himself on deck, and men so circumstanced as were Plumer and his associates, would scarcely put arms into the hands of any man whom they did not feel sure they could trust. There seems no evidence, however, to implicate more than the ten men who finally left the Junior within 20 miles of the Australian coast, to which point the chief mate brought them after he had been brought from the hold, and had agreed, in order to save his life, to take the ship where they directed him. They left the ship in the vicinity of Cape Howe, in two whale-boats, taking with them everything of value which they could lay their hands upon. They attempted to penetrate the interior from Ninety-mile Beach, but found it more difficult than they expected, as this is a part where, from a scarcity of water, even the aborigines find it scarcely possible to travel. Six of them, however, forming the crew of one boat have persevered in the attempt, and it is thought most likely they have perished in it. If not, they can scarcely escape capture. The other four went to Twofold Bay where they gave themselves out as Americans on a voyage from Melbourne to Sydney. But the singularity of such a voyage being taken in a whale-boat, their arms and the nature and value of the property they had with them, excited suspicions. A force was gathered together, and they were arrested; but as there was no tangible evidence against them they were discharged again, although the boat was detained. They made themselves, however, as far as outward appearances went, pretty comfortable, wearing fine clothes and living a reckless life. Plumer, who calls himself Captain Wilson, became quite a ladies' man, and was even, it is said, upon the eve of marriage when he was arrested. When the men left the ship they imposed an oath upon the chief mate to take the ship on to New-Zealand. Had he done this, they would have had a considerable time before them to provide for their own safety. But of course he regarded the oath thus forced upon him as imposing no moral obligation, and he determined upon making towards the nearest port at which he could get assistance for the ship, and invoke the arm of justice to pursue the mutineers. He at first shaped his course towards Hobart Town, but meeting with an inter-colonial trader, he was advised to bear up for Sydney, and did so. The excitement in Sydney, on hearing of this mutiny, as well as the public sympathy with its victims, was very great. Soon afterwards, word was brought of some of the men having been seen at Gabo Island, and the steamer Illawarra was at once dispatched in search of them, with an armed body of police. The steamer followed the men to Twofold Bay, but ere her arrival an account of the mutiny had been received through another channel, and the local authorities had secured three of them. The fourth (Cartha) escaped into the bush, but he has since been captured. This was, apparently, the most desperate man of the party. After his apprehension, he managed to conceal a small file from the searching eyes of the police, and had nearly severed his irons ere this was discovered." In conclusion, we may state that an investigation has been going on at Sydney for several days, and is scarcely yet concluded. Four of the pirates who landed in Victoria have been taken on Bowsdale Plain, Gipps Land, and forwarded to Sydney. There are, therefore, eight now in custody."

The Mormon Rebellion.

From the London Times.

The practical comment on this document (the Utah memorial) is given in the news from the Salt Lake. The Mormons are said to be making active preparations for resistance. They were manufacturing ammunition, cannon, and revolvers, and drilling their troops. Nor had active hostilities been wanting. Some of the Mormons had had a slight skirmish with one of the pickets of the camp. There seems, then, no doubt that this deluded people will endeavor to defend their system from the attacks of the Federal Government. The result will perhaps be a bitter and unrelenting crusade. The Americans as a race are sufficiently excitable, not to say vindictive; and it is hardly doubtful that the news of any disaster sustained by the United States troops will be the signal for a general movement to exterminate the Saints. That this cannot be accomplished without a long struggle is clear enough. The distances are enormous; the heat and dust in Summer, the bitter cold in Winter, are enough to check the march of the most active troops and the most determined avengers. It is probable, too, that the Mormons are sufficiently strong to harass the march of their enemies, and perhaps, by their superior knowledge of the localities, to defeat them in detail. But of the Americans giving in and becoming reconciled with a community which has defied the Federal power there is little chance. Brother Heber Kimball probably sealed the fate of the Saints when he said "The day of our separation has come, and we are a free and independent people." This Declaration of Independence is not likely to pass unpunished by the United States. Indeed the army, as the Mormons complain, have repeatedly declared their intention of hanging Brigham Young and his Lieutenants, and, unless some great change takes place in the Mormon community, it must support a desperate struggle or acquiesce in the reform of its institutions.

An alternative certainly remains to the citizens of Utah. They may again strike their tents, leave the fields they have planted and the city they have built, and seek a refuge beyond the dominion of the United States. We certainly cannot desire their presence within the British territory, and a recent speech, comparing their present condition with "British colonial bondage," makes us hope that Queen Victoria's Empire will not be favored with a new race of polygamists. They may, however, migrate into the Mexican territory, drive out the Indians, and set up their sensual theocracy in the place of the native superstitions. But this will only defer the day of the inevitable struggle. The tide of American settlement will follow them, and Brigham Young or his successor will be threatened with extirpation by a new generation of citizens. Our only hope is that the Mormon body will, under the pressure of necessity, overthrow their priests and prophets, and accept the merely human nominees of Mr. Buchanan. Mormonism is said to have already undergone some changes. The book written on the golden plates is falling into disrepute, and the Bible is being restored to its old supremacy. Why should not the doctrine of Divine communication through Brigham Young and the practice of polygamy also pass away? If that were the case, then Mormonism would be as harmless as the creed of the Shakers or the Southcotians. If the citizens of Utah will anticipate the resolve of the United States and dethrone their prophets—and if they will give guarantees for a more moral course of life, they may still be left in possession of the regions which it is said they have won from the wilderness with almost unexampled industry and perseverance.

British Policy in China.

From the London Times, April 1.

The most important intelligence from China is that Lord Elgin and Baron Gros are going northward, and have agreed upon the demands which will be sent to Pekin. The American and Russian Missions have also given their adhesion, and consequently the invitation which this country held out to her neighbors a year since has been finally accepted. It remains for our Government to carry out what has been so successfully begun. The English people have an opportunity of conferring a lasting benefit on the world. While India was in flames they had the courage to persist in the blockade of Canton, and by the time that Oude is fully reconquered the English flag may possibly be seen on the island cities of China and on the waters of her navigable rivers. What is required is, that the British Government should give every assistance to the authorities on the spot, and keep for the country the lead which properly belongs to it. Should the Court of Pekin return an evasive reply or refuse to answer at all, Lord Elgin should have it in his power to proceed at once to active measures. We have before expressed our opinion in favor of the reoccupation of Chusan. Hong Kong is quite insufficient for our wants, and it is universally agreed that Chusan should never have been given up. We trust, therefore, that this fine island will at once be brought under the British flag. The principle on which we have invited the coöperation of other States is plain enough. It is not because we cannot do the work ourselves, but because we are willing that every country should share the advantages of a common treaty, and because we desire that there may be no necessity for a renewal by any other Power of the coercive measures which are now about to be applied. Let us take Chusan; and, if our French neighbors desire it, let them also form an establishment in the Chinese seas. The import by France of Chinese silk is very large, and, though the trade is chiefly carried on by English and American vessels, yet the French are fairly entitled to acquire a spot of ground on which to form a settlement. This country has no jealousy of its neighbors, but with its great and increasing interests in Eastern Asia it must reserve to itself perfect liberty of acquiring such territorial rights as may be necessary for the due development of its own commerce and the commerce of its vast dependencies.

The Very Latest.

THE NEW GOVERNMENT INDIA BILL.

The Court of Directors of the East India Company have called a special meeting of the proprietors for the purpose of considering the provisions of the bill introduced by Lord Derby's Administration for the Government of India, in connection with the bill previously introduced by Lord Palmerston.

The Times has a leading article on the Railway competition to the North, in which it observes: "When the two great Companies cease their unnatural strife, they will infallibly visit the consequences, as far as they can, on the public, by an increase of fares, and by a reduction of accommodation."

The Herald throws considerable ridicule on the efforts which it presumes are making during the recess for the reorganization of the Whig junto, and dwells on the difficulty of two rival positions represented respectively by Lord J. Russell and Lord Palmerston.

The traffic returns of the Railways in the United Kingdom for the week ending March 27th, amounted to £409,940 showing an increase of £3,270 over the same week of last year.

The number of visitors at the Crystal Palace, yesterday, was short of 27,000, and included 25,437 admissions on payment.

The Daily News gives an extract from a copy of one of the sentences under which at present Frenchmen may be arrested and sent to Africa, in accordance with the recent law of safety. After showing how this law is worked, the News asks, Where will all this end?

Owing to the general holiday, the newspapers do not contain the usual City articles.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

Money continued very abundant, but the Bank of England had made no change in its rates. A dull tone had prevailed on the Stock Exchange. Consols closed on Thursday, the 1st, at 96⅝@96⅞ for both money and account. Business was suspended on the 2d, it being Good Friday, and Saturday was also to be observed, generally, as a holiday. It had been discovered that Messrs. William Brand & Co., merchants, of Dundee and New-York, entered into arrangements, about Christmas last, with nine large creditors to pay 10s. in the pound. The liabilities are stated at from £60,000 to £80,000. The failure, it is said, was concealed because the announcement of it in December last would have greatly aggravated the local difficulties of the crisis.

The returns of the Bank of England for the week ending March 31 show a falling off in the bullion of £104,898.

The West India mail steamer arrived at Southampton on the 2d, with $637,000 in specie.

AMERICAN SECURITIES.

Messrs. Baring Brothers & Co's Circular says: "American Railway Bonds present little change,—Illinois Central shares, £8@£7 discount."

Mr. E. F. Satterthwaite's report says: "The market for American Securities in London has been dull during the past week, especially for the securities of the New-York and Erie and Illinois Central Railroads. New-York Central and Michigan Central remain firm at our last quotations. Illinois Central shares have been dealt in to some extent at 7 discount, and close buyers 10.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

By the arrival of the Cunard steamship Africa at this port, yesterday, we receive London and Liverpool advices to the 3d inst.—four days later. Parliament having adjourned, the political intelligence from Great Britain is without any importance. There are rumors of a threatened breach between France and Switzerland on the passport question, but it is not looked upon as a very serious matter, as the French Government recognizes, by this time, the absurd extent to which their agents carried this passport nuisance under the Orsini excitement. Sardinia is reported to have sent an ultimatum to Naples in the affair of the Cagliari, but though the former has assumed a very decided attitude, and may go so far as to withdraw her Ambassador, it is not believed that the trouble will lead to war. It will be seen from a notice, published elsewhere, and issued by the American Consul at Manchester, England, that every facility is now given to our people who desire visiting France, to obtain passports under the new system. The work of taking in the Atlantic cable was progressing with dispatch on both the Niagara and the Agamemnon, and the whole was expected to be on board by the 10th of May. We print, among the Africa's news, a very interesting report of the proceedings of the meeting of Russian nobility for regulating the emancipation of serfs in the Empire. General MOURAVIEFF made a remarkable speech on the occasion. We copy from an Australian paper some further particulars of the mutiny and murder on board the New-Bedford whaler Junior. Eight of the pirates had been captured and were taken to Sidney.

Congress was mainly engaged in the consideration of private bills yesterday, of which the Senate passed thirty-two.

The prospect of an immediate adjournment of the Legislature was no better last night, apparently, than it was a week ago. Efforts were made yesterday to fix upon a certain hour to close the session, but they all failed. The day was principally devoted in both Houses to debating the important bills from the Committee of Ways and Means.

The funeral of the Hon. THOMAS H. BENTON took place yesterday at St. Louis. His remains were interred in the Bellefontaine Cemetery, and were followed by the most imposing procession ever formed in St. Louis. It consisted of the relatives, all the military companies of the city, the Seventh Regiment of United States Infantry, the Judges of the Courts, the members of the bar, the members of the City Government, the benevolent Societies, the Turners, and an immense concourse of citizens. The cortège was forty-five minutes in passing a given point.

A full Jury was obtained yesterday for the trial of the Littles murder case at Rochester. Two full panels had been previously exhausted in the effort to obtain the requisite number. The District-Attorney opened for the prosecution, and two witnesses were examined.

Capt. GREEN, of the ship A. Z., of this City, charged with killing one of his crew at sea, was arrested yesterday in Boston by Marshal RYNDERS and an assistant, and will be brought back for trial.

Twenty-one cases of yellow fever were sent to the Marine Hospital from the frigate Susquehanna yesterday morning, and immediately after, the Health Officer sent her to the lower Quarantine anchorage to ride out her Quarantine probation. Her officers and crew, except so many as may be necessary to remain on board as ship-keepers, have been ordered to leave the ship and take quarters on the Quarantine grounds, where they will remain until all fear has passed that they will be attacked with yellow fever. Several of the sick arriving died yesterday, and the remaining cases are doing well. A force of the Metropolitan Police was furnished to the assistance of the Health Officer while the crew of the Susquehanna are detained at Quarantine.

The third session of the Methodist East Conference was held yesterday, Bishop BAKER presiding. The discussions were of more than usual interest, being upon the resolutions of the Committee on Slavery, reaffirming the language of the Discipline as it was in 1784, viz.: "That the practice of holding our fellow-citizens in Slavery is contrary to the golden rule of God, and the inalienable rights of mankind, as well as the principles of the American Revolution; and we therefore deem it our most bounden duty to take immediately some effectual method to extirpate this abomination from us." The duty of the ministers and the organs of the Church to assert these doctrines, was enforced, and the belief was expressed that such a course would harmonize the Church, and cause them to act as a unit in the cause of emancipation. Dr. WHEEDON and the Rev. Mr. HATFIELD advocated the resolutions, and Dr. BANGS opposed them; the latter asserted that he did not believe it to be a sin to own slaves and sell them. The resolutions were adopted, and the Conference adjourned to 8½ o'clock this morning.

The society of "Regulars" met last evening at No. 161 Bowery, with G. C. GENNET as President, and W. L. CASSIN and S. L. NOLAN, as Secretaries. There was no business of special importance transacted. Resolutions condoling with the nation for the loss of THOMAS H. BENTON, were passed unanimously. The society complains that the Westchester House men are endeavoring to use their name without authority.

In the Court of General Sessions yesterday, LUDWIG WRIGHT, a man apparently in the last stage of consumption, pleading guilty to receiving stolen goods, the property of Messrs. YOUNG, SCHULTZ & Co., leather dealers, Ferry-street, he was remanded for sentence. WILLIAM GOHLER was tried for an assault and battery on CHARLES CAMPBELL. The case was of an unsatisfactory nature, and the Jury at once acquitted the defendant, the District Attorney having abandoned the felonious intent. JAMES MURRAY, a man of very bad repute, was tried for robbery in the first degree. On the night of March 29, as was charged, he assaulted a sailor named GEORGE CROWELL, in Water-street, and robbed him of $20. The case was a very clear one, and the Jury convicted him. Sentence reserved. During the trial of MURRAY, his counsel boldly said to the Court that, inasmuch as his client was a poor man, he could not expect justice in the Court of Sessions, and on being called to order by the Recorder, he further stated that the Court of Sessions was a "mercenary" Court, and added that it was so called in that morning's issue of the NEW-YORK TIMES. The Recorder again called the counsel to order, and said that the article to which he alluded could not refer to the Court of General Sessions.

Messrs. DEAN & SALTER, proprietors of the Golden Prize, were rearrested yesterday, on an affidavit made by Sergeant BIRNEY, of the Mayor's squad, and brought before City-Judge RUSSELL. The Judge held a secret session. On the door being unlocked, the Judge himself, Ex-Judge WHITING, Sergeant BIRNEY and the two defendants were discovered. The Judge, in the secret session, had examined the matter, and had so nearly come to the conclusion that Messrs. DEAN & SALTER had not violated any law, that he consented to their discharge on parole till the 30th inst. In the interim the Judge will make up his mind whether any law has been violated or not.

Yesterday Judge DAVIES rendered a decision denying the application for a writ of execution, empowering the Sheriff to oust CONOVER and reinstate DEVLIN into the Street Commissioner's office, on the ground that the judgment of the Court of Appeals is itself a sufficient execution. If the defendant refuses to deliver up the books and papers, proceedings may be taken against him for a misdemeanor.

The General Markets, yesterday, were quite heavy and irregular for Cotton, which declined in price, without attracting much attention. Flour was less active, and buyers had any existing advantage. Wheat was more freely offered at somewhat easier prices, yet it was not active. The transactions in Corn amounted to 43,000 bushels at advanced rates. Provisions were in lively request, and hog products were dearer. Rio Coffee was brisk and firm. Rice attracted considerable attention at buoyant prices. Freights continued depressed.

The Central Park.

The plans for the Central Park are now undergoing examination at the hands of the Commissioners, and it is perfectly fair to suggest one or two points which deserve more notice than they are likely to receive, in arriving at any decision on the merits of the competing schemes. There are various portions of the public whose tastes and interests must be consulted in laying out the grounds, but there are some more likely to be unduly cared for, and some not likely to be cared for at all. Military companies, cricket players, skaters, strollers, loungers, are all sure to be provided for amply. There are two other interests, however, who must be impartially dealt with, and whose claims, are nevertheless somewhat conflicting—we mean the carriage interest and the saddle interest.

The driving of vehicles is a great institution among us, and may be safely said to constitute almost the only out-door amusement of the majority of our male population. The ambition of every fast man, young or old, is to possess a wagon with one or two trotting horses attached; and so exclusive has of late years been the devotion to this species of recreation, that the art of riding on horseback may be said to be almost extinct amongst us. Between the two modes of rejuvenating either mind or body, there can be no sort of comparison. Apart from its interest in the betting ring, and its influence on horsebreeding, there does not exist a more unsightly and piteous spectacle in nature, than a fast man, wrapped up in furs in a wagon, with extended arms forcing a horse along at twenty miles an hour. There is no physical benefit to be derived from the operation; inasmuch as the movement is not sufficient to exercise the muscles of a delicate school-girl, and it cultivates no one quality of body except quickness of eye, and a cobbler's manual dexterity, and it cultivates no quality of mind, save the habit of attention.

We think in the whole range of national amusements, it would be hard to find one so extensively pursued, which results in less benefit either to the national morale or the national physique. It has here at the North taken the place of everything else, and the result is and must be, physical deterioration. The finest races of the world, physically, are and always will be equestrian races,—races who love to devote the horse to his first and noblest use—the saddle. There could not be better examples of the truth of this than are furnished by the Poles, Hungarians, Turks, the upper classes in England and the Southern planters in this country. In all of these, equestrianism is a passion, and the art of managing a horse well, while sitting on his back, is justly looked upon as the manliest and grandest of sports. The horse was made to be ridden in the saddle, and his devotion to other purposes is one of the necessities, perhaps, but also one of the abuses of civilization. Dragging laden vehicles by pulling from the shoulder, is an occupation only fit for bullocks, and in those countries in which the horse is held in most esteem, and in which he exists in greatest perfection, it is a use to which bullocks only are put. KINGSLEY is not far wrong in saying that, to be a bold rider, is presumptive evidence of divers other good qualities. The man who takes a six-barred gate in a flying leap is certainly a man in whom there is fine raw material, and the reason is obvious. Riding the saddle, and above all hunting in it, develops the qualities of which, in their highest perfection, heroes are made. It teaches presence of mind, courage, quickness of eye, coolness in danger, self-reliance; it teaches that most invaluable of things to be learned—mind and body to act together; brings eye and limb and will into harmony, and makes the morale and physique work together for health and happiness and beauty. How much wagon-driving, "granny"-fashion, with swathed legs, will give our young men's chests an inch in breadth, or add an ounce of flesh to their attenuated calves?

If riding on horseback were the fashion, as it ought to be, New-York parties would present less frequently the lamentable spectacle of cavaliers the same height and not half the breadth of their partners. The narrow-shouldered, lanky beaux who haunt our ballrooms, are standing appeals to the Park Commissioners to do anything that in them lies to bring back amongst us the ancient and manly art of riding on horseback. Nothing will do as much to toughen our muscles and inflate our lungs. Nothing can brace nerves that tobacco juice and gin slings have unstrung, half as well as a hard-mouthed, well-fed, vicious horse on a fine Spring morning. To make even a beginning, however, we must have a good straight ride, or one with no turns that we cannot see round, so that there may be no danger of collisions, and into which no vehicles should enter. The almost total abandonment of equestrian exercise in New-York is in a great measure due to the want of any place to ride in with safety to horse or rider. Places frequented by fast-trotting wagons are out of the question, because a horseman runs imminent risk of being run down at every stride by another class of pleasure-seekers, whom an infinity of drinks render unfit for any amusement but that of sitting bolt upright in a wagon, holding on by the reins, and shouting at a degraded steed. We hope the Central Park Commissioners will give us, at all events, a good road for horseback riding in the Park.

THE FIRST WARNING.—The arrival of the United States steam-frigate Susquehanna in our harbor, with the yellow fever on board, at this early season of the year, should have the effect of opening the eyes of our public authorities to the absolute necessity of taking efficient steps to prevent the introduction of this much-dreaded disease among us the coming Summer. The disease broke out on board the Susquehanna while she lay in the harbor of Greytown, and assumed at once a most malignant form, which a cruise at sea failed to mitigate. The Susquehanna having come to Greytown direct from the Mediterranean, her crew must have been in a healthy condition and the ship free from any of the causes which a long cruise in the tropics would have been likely to create favorable to the disease. The malaria, therefore, must have been of an unusually malignant nature, and its deadly effects on board a ship like the Susquehanna, where every attention was paid to the proper measures for promoting the health of the crew, affords an indication of what the disease would be on board an ordinary passenger-ship, where but little care is bestowed upon sanitary regulations. We are constantly having arrivals from Central America, and the Susquehanna may be regarded as a precursor of many more visitors infected with the dreaded disease.

The City is never in a good condition to resist the visitation of a pestilence, and it is in a peculiarly bad condition now. Thanks to private enterprise, the main street of the City has been kept clean and free from unsightly heaps of filth; but all the streets that lead to the wharves and all the principal landing places on both sides of the City, are in a condition to breed infectious diseases, rather than to resist them. The yellow fever has been anticipated the past three years, but we have been mercifully spared from such a calamitous visitation. We may yet be caught napping, and the pestilence may be upon us before we have time to avoid it. There is now, however, abundant time to guard against it; the arrival of the Susquehanna should be looked upon as a warning, and every possible measure taken to prevent the introduction of the pestilence. Two things are absolutely necessary for the public safety: one, is the strict enforcement of the Quarantine regulations, and the other, a thorough and systematic cleaning of the streets. By such means we may ward off yellow fever and every other form of pestilence; but, by neglecting them, we should be constantly exposed at all points, and can hardly hope to escape the danger with which we are threatened.

A FEDERAL UNION FOR CANADA.—Mr. GALT, a prominent member of the Canadian Legislative Assembly, now in session at Toronto, has prepared and published a series of resolutions, three in number, which he is about to offer in that body, in favor of a Federal Union for the two Canadas, in lieu of the Legislative Union now existing; and contemplating also a general confederation of all the British North American Provinces. The first of Mr. GALT'S resolutions recommends, in view of local and sectional difficulties, that Canada East and Canada West should each have a Legislature of its own, and that there should be a general Legislature and Government for both Provinces, to which all subjects of national and common importance should be referred. The idea, borrowed from our system, is sensible and practical. There can be no harmony between the diverse populations of the two Canadas so long as all their local legislation is transacted in one common body. Each can better manage its home affairs for itself, as is done by each several State of the American Union.

The second resolution recommends local Governments for the Northwest and Hudson's Bay Territories; and the third is devoted to urging the establishment of a general confederation of the Provinces of New-Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, Prince Edward's Island, with Canada and the Western Territories, as calculated among other things to "add to their national power and consideration."

These topics are regarded with interest in Canada, and well they may be. The chain of Provinces, stretching across the continent, and embracing nearly half of North America, is a nascent empire which the world must ere long take notice of.

THE MEXICAN PROTECTORATE QUESTION.—Some time in February, General HOUSTON introduced a resolution in the Senate proposing that the United States should assume a Protectorate over Mexico and the Central American States. He gave notice on Thursday that he would call up this resolution on Monday next, when it is understood that Senator HOUSTON will so modify it as to limit its application to Mexico.

Our relations with the Spanish-American Republics, under the peculiar circumstances of their condition, constitute a subject of very great importance. Those circumstances must in some measure indicate the line of policy proper to be pursued, and it is by no means strange that public opinion is divided upon a question so novel and momentous. It would be more strange if the mind of the country were not excited thereby. The idea of annexing Mexico, with her alien, heterogeneous and unqualified population, is undoubtedly repugnant to most of our citizens. Yet it may safely be assumed that a large majority in this country have become reconciled to the acquisition of Cuba, even at the cost of hundreds of millions of dollars; and certainly to such, the control of Mexico, a country much more valuable, ought not to seem a thing impossible or undesirable.

The question has fallen into the right hands in the Senate. General HOUSTON is versed in Mexican character and in the condition of the Mexican people. We shall look with interest for his demonstration on Monday.

STILL ANOTHER CHANCE FOR PHILADELPHIA.—If our ambitious neighbors on the Delaware have not yet completed their arrangements for the purchase of the Collins steamships, they will be pleased to learn that another very eligible opportunity is offered to them to purchase a first-class vessel to put on the line between that port and Liverpool, or some other European port. The proprietors of the Leviathan, it appears, are anxious to dispose of that monster ship, and she is now in the market. Here is an opportunity for establishing direct trade with Europe, either from Philadelphia or Norfolk, on a perfectly gigantic scale. There would be infinitely more éclat in purchasing the Leviathan than the Adriatic and her two smaller companions, and we have no doubt that the Leviathan would prove quite as profitable.

REGENT OF THE UNIVERSITY.—The Journal of Commerce, speaking of the recent election of a Regent, says:

> "It is a position for which Mr. BRYANT is admirably qualified; but his absence in Europe will prevent his giving any attention to the duties of the office for some time to come."

This is a matter of not the slightest consequence. There are no "duties of the office" which amount to anything. Its whole business is clerical and can just as well be performed by the Secretary as by the ten or fifteen very respectable gentlemen who are supposed to do it. Several attempts have been made to galvanize the Board into life and serviceable activity, but they have proved entirely unsuccessful. It was designed to take entire charge of the higher education of the State, and has power sufficient to render infinite service to those interests; but it has sunk into a comatose condition of utter inefficiency and uselessness. It has become a sort of asylum for politicians who have survived their active usefulness. When the party in possession wish to compliment a man, without giving him either power or emolument, they make him Regent. There are members of the Board who have not attended a meeting for years.

CONGRESSIONAL ADJOURNMENT—THE DAY FIXED.—Both Houses of Congress have voted to close the present session on Monday, the 7th of June, the Senate having on Thursday concurred in a joint resolution to that effect previously adopted by the House of Representatives. This is an earlier day than has of late years been usual, and some will doubtless attribute it to the fact that members of Congress receive a fixed salary instead of eight dollars per diem as formerly. Their pay is now $3,000 per session, exclusive of mileage, as well for the short session, which terminates on the 4th of March, as for the long one which ends whenever Congress pleases. The present is the first session held under the salary regulation, and the day designated for adjournment will probably be in some sense a precedent. Six months is certainly long enough even for the long session; and if by any possible edict or rule the length and number of Buncombe essays read and spouted, could be materially curtailed, the country would have cause to rejoice.

STREET COMMISSIONER—THE MOTION FOR A WRIT DENIED.—In the Supreme Court, Special Term, Mr. Justice DAVIES denied the motion of Mr. DEVLIN'S counsel for a writ directed to the Sheriff to put DEVLIN in possession of all matters and things appertaining to the office of Street Commissioner. The learned Judge decided that the judgment of the Supreme Court at the February term in favor of DEVLIN as against CONOVER, affirmed by the Court of Appeals, put the former in complete possession of the office in question. There is nothing so far as the office is concerned which the sheriff can seize and deliver to him. And so far as the books, papers and documents are concerned, he has a summary and effectual process to obtain them. Judge DAVIES said that, in view of the importance of the case, he had consulted his brethren, who concurred with him. An abstract of the opinion will be found in another column.

MR. EVERETT IN CHARLESTON.—The Richmond South, which felt itself scandalized by Mr. EVERETT'S presence in Richmond, on the 22d of February, will expire of vexation to learn that he had a public reception in Charleston, South Carolina, on the 10th inst., and that Mr. YEADON addressed him as "Orator, Patriot, Sage, Cicero of America, Laudator of WASHINGTON, High Priest of the Union, and Friend of Mankind." What is this world coming to?

How Popular Support is Secured.

Mr. HASCALL, the editor of the Kalamazoo (Mich.) Gazette, who is also Register of the Kalamazoo Land Office, ($500 a year,) recently came out for Lecompton. The following letter from SAMUEL YORK AT LEE, an office broker at Washington, explains the matter:

WASHINGTON CITY, Tuesday, March 16, 1858.

FRIEND HASCALL: The Gazettes of the 12th have arrived, and I sent my extra number to the President. Last week I sent my extra number to the Secretary of the Interior, with a private note, which gave him certain items of information which will protect you from any attempts in that quarter. Your Gazette of the 12th is admirable, and your editorial is candid and unanswerable. Several of the Illinois papers have come over from DOUGLAS during the past three or four weeks. I clipped the inclosed from the New-York Sun of last Saturday. Everything is working right. Mr. BUCHANAN'S policy will confirm the party, and finally settle the Slavery question. Those who sustain him will never regret it.

I sent a portion of one of my letters to MUNN & Co., of New-York, requesting them to exchange the Scientific American with the Kalamazoo Gazette. One of the partners is a friend of mine, and I hope my request will be acceded to. The paper is a valuable one, and you will find them worth filing.

I hope our people daily become more reconciled to the L. C. policy of the Administration. S. Y. A'L.

Amusements.

MASON AND THOMAS' MATINEE.—The last entertainment of the season takes place to-day at the Spingler Institute, beginning at 1 o'clock. There are four pieces on the programme; a Quartette by BEETHOVEN; Solo, (Handel and Mendelssohn,) by Mr. WM. MASON; Solo for violin by Mr. THOMAS, and Quintette by Mr. SCHUMANN.

NIBLO'S GARDEN.—The Ravels give one of their excellent afternoon entertainments to-day. The programme is arranged for the especial amusement of the young folk. In the evening MARIETTA ZANFRETTA, the wonderful tight-rope dancer, takes her benefit. An excellent bill is provided.

BROADWAY THEATRE.—A play new to the American stage, called "Philip of France," was produced here last night. It is from the pen of Mr. MARSTON, the author of the "Patrician's Daughter," and has obviously been written for "star" purposes. The plot is thus described:

The scene is laid in Paris, immediately after King PHILIP'S sudden marriage with INGERBURGE, the daughter of the King of Denmark. The marriage has almost been forced upon PHILIP, in order to gain the aid of Denmark against his enemies at home and abroad. His heart's affection has already been given to MARIE DE MERANIE, and he treats his new-made wife with coldness and neglect. The discord between the Royal pair suggests to DE FONTAINE, one of PHILIPS'S nobles and his secret enemy, to throw out a hint to the King that his marriage has been one too nearly related to him, and therefore prohibited by the church; on which ground PHILIP seeks to obtain a divorce, which the Bishops of France pronounce, but the Court of Rome command the King to restore his banished wife under pain of the Papal Interdect. PHILIP refuses to obey the Pope, and the curse of Rome is pronounced by the assembled Bishops. MARIE, in this dilemma, descends from the throne and lays her crown at the footstool of the King. INGERBURGE is restored to her position as the Queen of France. PHILIP'S triumph over the Pope, and the affecting death of MARIE DE MARANIE in the presence of her soul's idol—finishes the play.

The play does not appeal to the highest class of feelings, but, as far as it goes, it is good, and presents an exciting picture of that fierce church discipline to which even monarchs were subjected in the olden times. The defiance of the Bishops and the furious rage of the King are the ingredients of the best scenes in the play, which, notwithstanding an occasional flash of animation, is heavy, being deficient in that internal mechanism which easily and pleasantly evolves an underplot, and relieves the strain of the serious business. The scenes between Philip and Marie are generally conceived in good taste, but the language often mounts higher than the thought. Not much reputation can be built on the literary merits of the piece, Mr. MARSTON'S skill being displayed on this occasion in the production of a play which may be played effectively with a limited company. The task is a difficult one, and it is discharged with ability.

Mr. and Mrs. WALLER are steadily winning in public favor, and it is right that they should, for they are, in many respects, the best artists we have had at this theatre for a long time. The lady especially, has an unusual claim on critical consideration; there are moments when she quite equals the efforts of the best living artists, and in her worst scenes there is abundant promise of future excellence. Mr. MARSTON'S play does not afford a favorable opportunity for the display of high and commanding talent; indeed, the death-scene in the last act is the only one that admits of elaboration, and this, we confess, was over-elaborated, to our taste. The exhibition of physical suffering, arising from disease, does not belong to tragedy, but to melodrama, and is disgusting under any circumstances. Marie takes a long time to die, and dies, at last, like a hoarse old crone, not like an affectionate, broken-hearted young wife. Some of the guttural gurglings, produced by Mrs. WALLER, are simply revolting; they are perpetuations of Mr. FORREST'S worst faults. We trust sincerely that an artiste of so much quiet excellence will see the necessity of modifying these painful exhibitions; we are certain that much more could be done if less were aimed for. Mr. WALLER played the hero with gallant bearing and determined energy. In rapid passages this gentleman's voice becomes husky and confused, and he would do well to avoid them, and thereby escape the inevitable monotony which strained passion excites.

The play was well cast, but not so well studied. It will improve by repetition. Mr. and Mrs. WALLER were called out after each act, and unquestionably achieved a success.

THE SEMI-ANNUAL EXHIBITION OF WARD SCHOOL NO. 35 took place Thursday, commencing at 9 A. M. J. B. VARNUM, Jr., presided, and speeches were made by Messrs. HASKETT, BENEDICT, the Hon WM. TAYLOR, Dr. BEADLE, and others. The exercises in composition, declamation and singing, and the examination of classes, were highly satisfactory to the large audience which was assembled. W. L. BULL and J. P. THOMPSON, Jr., acquitted themselves exceedingly well. The exhibition in the Primary Department—Miss JANE M. LINSEY, Principal—"came off" on the 7th ult., and demonstrated the rapid progress which the pupils had made in their studies. There are 600 boys in the Male Grammar School, and nearly 400 boys and girls in the Primary Department of this school. Mr. THOS. HUNTER is the Principal of the Grammar Department.

Messrs. DEAN & SLATER, proprietors of the Golden Prize, were arrested yesterday morning, in consequence of their published card announcing that they intended to continue the publication of their paper on the same basis as heretofore. They were sent before the City Judge for examination. The examination was held with closed doors. It was stated afterwards that the Judge had decided that the accused had committed no violation of law, and held them without bail till the 30th inst. for examination.

The Regulars' General Committee had another meeting last evening at No. 163 Bowery, GEO. C. GARNET, presiding, and after passing resolutions of regret as to the death of THOMAS H. BENTON, and adopting some regulations for the government of the Ward associations, adjourned. It was charged by many of the members that the Westchester House Party had stolen the name of the "Regulars," and at this much complaint was made.

The body of JAMES RIERSON, a private watchman who was drowned on the 21st ult. at the foot of Sixteenth-street, North River, was yesterday discovered floating off the Battery. Coroner CONNERY held an inquest, and a verdict of "accidental drowning" was rendered. The deceased was a native of Ireland, and 37 years of age.

The workmen were yesterday digging a trench from the City Hall to the new TIMES building, for the reception of the telegraph wires that are to connect the City Hall clocks and those that are to be placed in the Surrogate's Office.

KATE CONRAD, a servant girl, sued Mrs. BLEIDOM to recover $5,000 damages for calling her a thief. The case was tried in the City Court, yesterday. The defendant was acquitted.

The servant girl, MARY ANN WAUGH, who was arrested for grand larceny, as mentioned in the TIMES yesterday, has been fully committed for trial. The property stolen from her employer and already recovered, is valued at $1,500.

The committee appointed to canvass the returns of the late election held another meeting last evening. The testimony was confirmatory, not new.

CHILD DROWNED IN A TUB OF WATER.—A little child, two years old, named MARY JANE GAHAGAN, whose parents reside at No. 36 Newark-avenue, Jersey City, was drowned, on Thursday afternoon, by falling into a tub of water which was sitting in the room. The mother was present, but so intoxicated that she was not conscious of the occurrence.

DECIDED.—The vote at the recent charter election in Hoboken was so close between Messrs. SPEILMAN and KOHLSAAT, candidates for Water Commissioner, that for several days it was difficult to decide which was elected. It has finally been determined in favor of Mr. SPEILMAN, the Democratic candidate, by a majority of two votes. Mr. WM. W. SHIPPEN was the other Commissioner elected.

Fires.

IN BROADWAY—NARROW ESCAPE.—A fire was discovered at a few minutes after 4 o'clock yesterday morning by the Fifteenth Ward Police in the oyster saloon of JAMES WILLIAMS, in the basement of No. 869 Broadway. JAMES A. WILLIAMS, who slept in the place, was found sound asleep and his bed on fire. He was considerably under the influence of liquor, and it was a difficult matter to awaken him. The back of an old iron safe was burnt off, and $15 of a roll containing $80 destroyed. The total damage to the place is estimated at $50, and is covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

IN WAVERLEY-PLACE.—At 7 o'clock yesterday morning, a fire was discovered in a bedroom in the boarding-house No. 192 Waverley-place. The damage did not exceed $50. Insured in the New-York Fire and Marine Insurance Company. The young men who occupied the room, vacated it about fifteen minutes before the fire was discovered. As there had been no fire in the room, and as neither of the young men ever smoked, the origin of the fire is a mystery.

The Sickness on the Susquehanna.

THE FRIGATE SENT BELOW—THE SICK TO THE MARINE HOSPITAL—A POLICE FORCE DETAILED AT QUARANTINE.

Yesterday, at an early hour, Dr. THOMPSON, the health officer of the port, sent a communication to the Mayor stating the situation of the Susquehanna and her crew, and stating that, with the concurrence of the Mayor and Health Commissioners, he should send her to the Lower Bay. The following is a copy of the letter:

PORT OF NEW-YORK, Quarantine, Staten Island,
HEALTH OFFICER'S OFFICE, April 16, 1858.

To the Mayor and Commissioners of Health of the City of New-York:

GENTLEMEN: The frigate Susquehanna, from Jamaica, W. I., laden with stores and no passengers, arrived at Quarantine on the 15th inst., making the passage in five days.

While at the port of her departure, or during her passage, there occurred on board of said vessel many cases of yellow fever and many deaths.

The said vessel, by statute, is subject to quarantine for the period of thirty days, "unless the Health Officer, with the approval of the Mayor and Commissioners of Health, shall grant a permit for said vessel of cargo, or both, to proceed."

The vessel should be sent to the Lower Bay, and the crew landed on the Quarantine grounds.

RICHARD H. THOMPSON, Health Officer.

We hereby concur in the above opinion.

DANIEL F. TIEMANN, Mayor.
JOHN CLANCY, } Health
JEDEDIAH MILLER, } Commissioners.

Mayor TIEMANN expressed his wish that everything should be done to guard against the spread of the epidemic, and said he would advise the strictest surveillance to be kept upon the frigate and her crew for that purpose.

The messenger also had a requisition from Dr. THOMPSON for ten policemen to be sent immediately down, to watch the 400 persons composing the crew of the frigate, who were already landed at Quarantine. The request was sent to the General Superintendent, who detailed ten patrolmen, with directions to report to Dr. THOMPSON for duty.

The following is the requisition of Dr. THOMPSON:

QUARANTINE, Friday, April 16, 1858.

Hon. F. A. Tallmadge, Gen. Sup. Police.

DEAR SIR: The U. S. steam frigate Susquehanna arrived in port from the West Indies, yesterday evening, bringing with her a crew of about 400 persons, 18 of whom are sick of yellow fever, and have been sent into the Marine Hospital. This afternoon the entire crew will be landed on the Quarantine Grounds, where they will remain till they are freed of infection, which will take five or six days.

In view of the foregoing facts it becomes my duty to ask for the assistance of a force of the Metropolitan Police. During the stay of this crew on the Quarantine grounds, I shall require, by night and day, at least ten men. By giving this your attention so that the force shall be sent to my aid at once, you will very much oblige, Your obedient servant.

R. H. THOMPSON, Health Officer.

OFFICE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF POLICE,
No. 413 Broome-street, corner of Elm,
NEW-YORK, April 16.

DR. R. H. THOMPSON—Dear Sir: In compliance with your request I have directed ten patrolmen to report to you for duty.

You will please hereafter make your requisition for men, upon the General Superintendent and not the Mayor. Respectfully,

F. A. TALLMADGE, Supt. of Police.

The patrolmen were sent down by the 5 o'clock boat.

After the crew had all been landed, the frigate was sent down to the lower anchorage, designated last year by the Quarantine Commissioners, where she will be thoroughly fumigated and ventilated.

The following particulars are communicated by one of the officers on board the Susquehanna:

About the 19th of March the fever broke out in the Susquehanna, then lying in the harbor of Greytown, where she had orders to remain until relieved by the Jamestown. The climate had predisposed the crew to sickness, and upon the first appearance of the fever the vessel was taken outside in the hope that a change of climate would be beneficial. Such proved to be the case, and only one death occurred in addition to the three others previously reported.

After cruising a few days the ship anchored outside of the harbor of Greytown, but as the fever broke out on the 30th ult., with renewed violence, it was deemed best to get under way, some four officers and upwards of forty men being on the sick list. It was decided to run for Pensacola, the nearest hospital in the United States, when it was discovered that the coals were running short, and the medicines also. These circumstances induced the Captain to make for Port Royal, Jamaica—then within four hundred miles. On the 4th, Lieut HENRY W. QUEEN, of the Marine Corps, died after an illness of five days, which terminated in the black vomit. He was buried at sea.

On the night of the 5th the Susquehanna anchored in the harbor of Port Royal, where several British ships-of-war, under the command of Vice-Admiral Sir HOUSTON STEWART, were lying. The Admiral, upon learning the distressed condition of the Susquehanna, gave orders that the Naval Hospital on shore should be put in order for the reception of her sick. These orders were most faithfully carried out by the surgeons, who worked all night, so that, by 8 o'clock in the morning, six officers and fifty-seven men were transported to the Hospital, where everything was provided for their comfort. The boats of the English squadron from the Indus, Imaum and Devastation, nobly assisted in this duty, and even came provided with cots for the sick men.

The 6th and 7th were employed in coaling ship, and some twenty more sent to the hospital. The 8th got under way from Kingston, and anchored abreast of the naval hospital at Port Royal; sent ten men and Lieut. HOWELL there. Heard also that four of her men had died. At this place he received on board from the Indus, Assistant-Surgeon FREDK. H. ROSE, of the royal navy, as an additional medical officer, he having volunteered to serve in the Susquehanna. Surgeon PINKNEY, in consequence of his attention to the sick, was seized with fever; but his place was well filled by Dr. MACCOUN, who has had much experience in this disease. Out of ten ward-room officers, six were taken sick; of eight engineers, only two on duty.

On the 12th of April, JAMES READ, sailmaker's mate, died of fever and was buried at sea. Nothing but coming north saved the survivors.

With the exception of JAMES PRICE, a seaman, no other deaths have occurred, although about thirty cases of a milder form of the fever still remain.

The New-York East M. E. Conference.

THIRD DAY.—The Conference reassembled yesterday, Bishop BAKER presiding. The Rev. Mr. MITCHELL opened the exercises with prayer.

The Conference proceeded to the examination and election of deacons. Some discussion ensued in reference to an attempt to elect a local preacher to deacon's orders without requiring the usual probationary term to be served. The candidate was, after some remarks in opposition from Rev. Drs. BANGS and CLARKE, accepted.

DR. CUMMINGS, President of the Wesleyan University, was by resolution allowed to be transferred from the New-England Conference to this.

The Rev. Dr. WHEELAN presented the following resolutions from the Committee on Temperance and Slavery:

Resolved, That we reaffirm the language of our discipline as it was in 1784, viz.: "That the practice of holding our fellow citizens in Slavery is contrary to the golden rule of God, and the inalienable rights of mankind, as well as the principles of the American Revolution, and we, therefore, deem it our most bounden duty, to take immediately some effectual method to extirpate this abomination from us."

Resolved, That it is the duty of this Church as a unit, to elevate her membership to the high standard of these her primitive doctrines; and to this end it is her duty to inculcate them prudently, but firmly, through all her organs, whether the Press or pulpit.

Resolved, That while we oppose Slavery, as citizens, and give no sympathy to those who in the State are maintaining the cause of Freedom against the Slave power, we are specially the opponents of oppression as sin, and the supporters of emancipation as the requirement of righteousness; and we would, therefore, remember that our anti-Slaveryism should be deeply imbued with the spirit of the Holy Gospel; that it should wisely consult the honor and unity of our Church; in the full faith that the highest proof will be attained through the legitimate instrumentality of her established institutions.

Resolved, That we offer our unfeigned thanks to Almighty God, and tender our cordial congratulations to the friends of humanity, for the rapid extension of the principles of justice and freedom during the past year, as well as for the cheering prospects of the extension of free institutions in our country; and we cherish the anticipation that with proper effort in maintaining and diffusing light and truth on the subject, all misunderstanding and division will disappear; our Church will unite as with the heart of one man upon the ancient Wesleyan platform; and as in the great English emancipation struggle, Methodism will be unanimous and energetic in the cause of freedom.

Dr. WHEEDON moved the adoption of the resolutions, and spoke at some length in support of the same, contending for their adoption at this time as a measure of great importance.

Dr. BANGS moved the resolutions be taken up section by section, and then proceeded to speak to the first resolution, contending that the quotation which was contained in it was never in the discipline.

This assertion led to a contrary allegation on the part of Dr. WHEEDON, when it was moved to postpone the discussion, to be made the special order for some other day. This was subsequently withdrawn, after being opposed by Rev. Mr. HATFIELD and others.

The discussion on the substance of the resolutions then began. The Rev. Mr. BANGS addressing the Conference, and opposing on principle all meddling by the Church with the affair, as it was a matter with which they had nothing to do. He did not believe it to be a sin to own slaves and to sell them.

The Rev. Mr. HATFIELD replied, and urged upon the Conference immediate and decisive action on the substance of the resolutions.

After a variety of motions, a vote was taken on the subject, and the resolution was adopted.

The Conference then adjourned till Saturday morning, at 8½ o'clock.

☞ GEO. M. WRIGHT was elected Mayor of Bordentown, N. J., on Monday last, by a union of Republicans and Anti-Lecompton Democrats. The entire ticket for the Common Council was elected by about 150 majority.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

The Street Commissioners' Controversy—Writ of Assistance Denied.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Hon. Justice Davies.

The People ex rel. Charles Devlin vs. Daniel D. Conover.—We yesterday noticed an application which was made by Chas O'Conor, Esq., in behalf Mr. Devlin, for an execution in the nature of a writ of assistance, empowering the Sheriff to carry into effect the judgment of the Court of Appeals ousting Conover and reinstating Devlin in the possession of the Street Commissioner's Office. Yesterday his Honor rendered his decision denying the application, on the ground that the writ was not necessary to the recovery of the office.

His Honor rendered quite a lengthy opinion, in which, after reviewing the facts, he adds that it has been held by this Court that upon the rendition of judgment of ouster, in a suit brought on the relation of the people against any public officer, the latter becomes at once ousted, and the claimant, upon taking the oath and executing the necessary bond, becomes invested with the office. It seems, therefore, to be well settled in this State that in a suit like the present, the party declared entitled to the office takes it on the rendition of judgment, and that the judgment, so far as the office is concerned, executes itself. The plaintiff having the office already, in most full and ample possession, there is nothing which the Sheriff can seize and deliver to him. If the books, papers and documents, appertaining to the office, are withheld, his possession of it is not affected, and he must take the summary process for obtaining them which the code points out. The old writs of scire facias, quo warranto and information in the nature of a quo warranto having been held to be abolished by the code, the remedies obtainable under them have been succeeded by new and different ones, and cannot be relied upon in the present instance. The cases, moreover, did not sustain the position that under the old practice by quo warranto, an execution upon the judgment was necessary to put the prevailing party in possession of the office.

He quoted at some length the language of the Court in Welch vs. Cooke, in which these points are elaborated, and it is inferred that the person in whose favor a judgment has been rendered, must be in possession of the office, from the fact that the Legislature have provided no extraordinary process to install him. The writs of seizure, quoted as old precedents in England, he held, referred to rights of franchise, such as a market or a ferry, which were capable of being seized by the Sheriff, but were not applicable or necessary in the case of an office. For these reasons the judge holds that it is clear that Devlin does not need the aid of this Court or of the Sheriff to put out the defendant, and the writ asked for is not necessary to put him in possession of the books or other property appertaining to the office. By section 438 of the code, if the defendant refuses to deliver the books, &c., he shall be adjudged guilty of a misdemeanor, and proceedings may be instituted against him. That remedy is sufficient, and the application for the execution must be denied.

SURROGATE'S COURT—APRIL 17.

The will of George Dickinson, of Saybrook, Conn., was presented for probate before the Surrogate this morning. Mr. Dickinson was formerly a sea captain, largely interested in shipping interests in this City. His estate amounts to over $400,000, and is mostly invested in real estate and bank stocks in this City. The will contains many legacies to different benevolent societies. The will of Mrs. Mary Bowles—a sister of Mr. Dickinson—was also presented for probate, and distributes about $50,000 among relatives, and for different charitable purposes. The proving of these wills was fixed for June 1, 1858. R. F. Andrews appeared as proctor for proponants.

Police Intelligence.

BURGLARY AND ARREST.—As Officer Brooks, of the Second Ward, was passing through Gold-street, at 5 yesterday morning, he discovered a light inside the store of E. S. Belknapp & Co., dealers in Paints and Colors, No. 8 Gold street. He called the assistance of other officers, and going into the store, they found a burglar whom, after some difficulty, they arrested. Several packages of pennies and small change were all that he had procured. The fellow had worked his way into the dwelling by climbing into one of the second story windows over the awning, taking the precaution first, however, to extinguish the gas lamp burning in front of the store. The accused gave his name as Lewis Rouch, and said he was 19 years of age. He was taken to the lower Police Court and committed to answer.

STABBING.—Henry Housen and Bernard Hilcot, two German tailors, got into an altercation Thursday evening about making a coat. After exchanging a few hearty blows, Housen seized a pair of shears and stabbed his opponent in the right breast, inflicting a wound an inch and a half in depth. Dr. Mott was called and attended the injured man. He was removed to his residence, No. 137 Suffolk-street. Housen was arrested by the Seventeenth Ward Police, and committed by Justice Steers to await an examination.

BURNING FLUID ACCIDENT.—About 8 o'clock P. M. Thursday, as Rosana Heidrig, a German domestic living at No 86 Goerck street, was filling a fluid lamp while burning, the fluid suddenly exploded, setting her clothes on fire. She ran into the street, and a man who was passing instantly threw his overcoat around her, and extinguished the flames. She was severely burned.

The Case of the Adriatic.

STATEMENT OF CAPTAIN DURHAM, MASTER OF THE BARK ADRIATIC, TO THE AMERICAN CONGRESS AND PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES.

I left Belfast, Me., Oct. 31, 1856, with the bark Adriatic, loaded with lime and hay, bound to Savannah, Ga. On the night of the 2d of November, at 10½ o'clock, being under double-reefed topsails and steering by the wind, blowing fresh from the southwest, the watch on the lookout made a light about three points on the weather bow. I then caused a good and sufficient signal light to be hoisted in a proper position to be seen by the approaching vessel, which came steadily towards us. It was visible to myself and crew on deck that the approaching steamer must clear us if she continued the course she was then steering; but when within about one-third of a mile her course was suddenly changed, bearing down upon us. Fearing a collision would take place I put the helm down. The bark came into the wind, so that her sails were all shaking and her headway nearly stopped. It was the only remedy I had to prevent the steamer running over me. Had I not put the helm down the steamer would have struck me midships, and buried the bark and crew in the ocean.

The steamer struck the bark forward, carrying away jibboom, bowsprit, cutwater, and starting all the starboard bow from the deck frame, leaving me a perfect wreck.

The steamer pursued her course without stopping, until she was lost in the distance. I shaped my course for the nearest port to repair damages; arrived at Gloucester, Mass., reported the facts as to the collision, and repaired at a cost of $2,000. From thence I proceeded to Savannah, Ga.; discharged and loaded with a cargo of timber for France. Arrived at La Ciotat Feb. 10, 1857; on the 20th finished discharging, paid my custom dues, and cleared for Sicily. The following day an officer from the customs reported to me there was a mistake in my clearance at the Custom-House, requesting me to go to the Customs and have the matter rectified, which I did. After a few minutes they gave me to understand they would keep my papers, and refused to settle my freight, which amounted to about $4,000. There being no American Consul at La Ciotat, I went to Marseilles, a distance of 25 miles, where I made my complaint before the American Consul.

During my absence from the vessel the city authorities ordered my mate to unhang the rudder and unbend the sails, threatening, in case of refusal, to put him in prison, together with all hands.

My attorney plead the case of jurisdiction on the 17th of March following. It was decided by article 14, Code Napoleon, that the Courts of France had jurisdiction in cases of this kind.

The case was tried before the Tribunal of Commerce, and decided in my favor on the 3d of April, acquitting me of all blame, and awarding the bark 500 francs per day for every day detained by the prosecutors. About the 8th of the same month the case was taken to the Court of Aix, where it was argued. The Judges, being unable to give their decision, it was referred to a commission of three shipmasters. They went on board the bark and examined the signal-light used at the time of the collision, and reported that the light was of sufficient size and in a proper position, and was set ten minutes before the accident occurred; and they also reported that the steamer violated a well-known regulation by putting her wheel to starboard and endeavoring to pass the bark to the left instead of the right.

After this report the case was again brought before the Imperial Court of Aix. Notwithstanding the report of experts, chosen by themselves, they decided against the Adriatic on the ground that if the light had been really set it was either too small, or placed in a bad position to be seen by the Lyonnais, or, finally, set too late.

This decision was rendered against me on the 24th of December, 1857, after a detention of ten months.

After confiscating my vessel, freight and 2,000 francs of my own private property, feeling my case a hard one, and that I had been deeply wronged, I deemed it just to myself and to the owners of the Adriatic, not knowing at what moment I might be arrested and placed in prison for non-payment of the Lyonnais, (1,500,000 francs,) to attempt an escape. Accordingly I left the port of Marseilles with the Adriatic (without asking leave) and arrived at the port of Savannah, in the United States, on the 18th of March, 1858, after an absence of more than thirteen months, and a pecuniary loss of much more than the value of my vessel.

Respectfully submitted,
J. B. DURHAM,
Master of the bark Adriatic.

LOTTERY CAUTION.—We would respectfully caution the public against the many frauds practiced upon the community under the guise of Lotteries. There are but four States in which lotteries are legalized, viz.: Kentucky, Delaware, Maryland and Georgia; therefore, all circulars or advertisements directing parties to send to New-York or to any place in which lotteries are unlawful, can be safely set down as bogus or swindling concerns; and too much praise cannot be awarded to his Honor, Mayor TIEMANN, for the strong and successful efforts he is making towards breaking them up.

METROPOLITAN GIFT-BOOK STORE—A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.—The New-York Tribune of the 16th contains an editorial in which those engaged in the gift enterprise are denounced as swindlers and gamblers. If such be the case, the editors of that paper are accessory to, and abettors with me, in crime. I venture to assert that more persons have been humbugged and cheated out of their money from advertisements which have appeared in the Tribune, than from any other source. The Tribune has inserted advertisements which the editors must have known to be bare-faced humbugs. Love Powders, Old Doctors whose sands of life have about run out, Indecent Books, and other advertisements of the same stamp, have appeared again and again in the advertising columns of the Tribune.

I challenge the editor of the Tribune to show wherein I have defrauded or cheated any one to the amount of one cent. It is cowardly for an editor to publish editorials to injure any one in his business and reputation; it is mean and contemptible when he has pocketed the money for advertising. The articles which have appeared in the Herald have benefited rather than injured us, and I hope the editor of that paper will continue his abuse. But the Tribune is regarded by many as next to the Bible, and the editor of that paper does me an injustice when he classes me with swindlers and gamblers. He very well knows that I am not violating any law, and he dare not accuse me personally of any of these crimes.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A LEGAL GENTLEMAN.—Ralph Lockwood, Esq., a gentleman about 60 years of age, who has boarded at Laird's Museum Hotel, corner of West Broadway and Franklin-st., for several years past, was found lying dead upon the floor of his room. When discovered Mr. Lockwood had on all his clothes, and death must have ensued immediately after entering his room to retire or the following morning after dressing himself. Coroner Connery was called to hold an inquest, when Dr. Christopher Weltje of Franklin-st., made a post mortem examination of the body, and found valvular disease of the heart with pericarditis. The stomach was in a perfect state of softening; the membrane being entirely corroded. In the Doctor's opinion death was the result of pericarditis, and a verdict to that effect was rendered by the Jury. Mr. Lockwood was a native of New York, and a lawyer by profession. He was widely known in the City, and much esteemed by a large circle of friends.—N. Y. Tribune, April 15, 1858.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The above requires no comment; but the startling narrative strikes home to all dyspeptics, and those troubled with any uneasy sensations about the left side or left breast, or about the heart. The disease of which Mr. Lockwood died was a humor or skin disease settled on the mucus membrane of the stomach—the membrane that surrounds the heart, called the pericardium or heart-case, and the valves of the heart—and this skin disease was caused by vitiated bile and poison in the blood. Mr. Lockwood's case was curable to within six hours of his death. Nearly all sudden deaths among literary, professional, or sedentary persons, and all those pursuing indoor occupations, both males and females, and of all ages, from 15 to 80, arise from the causes noted above, all perfectly curable.

A REMARKABLE CASE OF HEART DISEASE CURED.

If the following homely, but graphic and truthful narrative, does not convince the reader that heart disease may be cured, and excite at least some interest in that system of treatment by which this cure was effected, it must be because his prejudices are invincible:

TAMWORTH, Carrol Co., N. H., Dec. 9, 1856.

DR. FITCH—Dear Sir: I must apologize to you for not writing you before. I certainly ought to have done so. At the time I applied to you, I had taken so much medicine that did me no good that I gave up all hopes of recovery; and, to be honest about the matter, I thought the same of yours. But, Sir, to commence the narrative of my case: Nine years ago I was taken with a slight pain in my heart; and just before I had the pain, there appeared to be a raw or sore spot on the heart about as big as a five cent piece. But it may have been imagination. It was, at all events, very sore, and I suffered the most excruciating pain in the heart. Then the heart commenced palpitating, and by spells it would entirely stop. One time, in particular, I fell senseless in my house; the neighbors were called, and by their timely aid—by rubbing and putting something stimulating into my mouth—I came to myself again. My family became more alarmed than ever, and also my friends; they said that they thought I was past cure. I called on the best doctors of the day, as they were thought to be; they said, all as one, it was the heart complaint, and could not be cured. I was then very weak. Some of them told me they could make me easier. They left me some medicine, but all they prescribed hurt me and I gave it back to them one after another. After taking the medicine of the last one of them for some days, he came to see me and found me lying upon the floor, for I had not lain on a bed for five weeks. I told him his medicine would kill me, and he had better take it away, which he did. The doctors all said that my disease was incurable. By chance I got one of your Almanacs; I read it, and it gave me some hopes. But my hopes were small, for I had not laid my head on a pillow for about three years. I had to sit up in bed with my shoulders covered up; I could not breathe if I laid down. Then, as the last resort, I thought I would write you. I think it was in October, 1853, and I stated my case as near as I could. You wrote me that my case was a bad one, but you thought you could help me. Even this encouragement almost gave me new life. You prescribed for me, and I got your medicines of one of your agents in Dover. There were a number of kinds, but the Heart Corrector seemed to revive me at once. In a few days I went out to my shop, some twenty rods from the house where I had hands at work; I had not been there for six weeks. My health rapidly improved.

Some of the doctors told me, before I got help, that if Dr. FITCH helped me so that I could ever work again, they would go in for him on Heart Complaints; they are surprised now to think I am so well. I now do as much work on my farm as I ask every man to do. If any one wishes to address me he is at perfect liberty to do so. This is at your service. And may God ever bless you, here and hereafter. Yours with respect,

BENJAMIN F. TWEMBLY.

Permit me to add that I prefer to receive a visit from my patients and have the opportunity of a personal examination if possible. But this is not absolutely necessary. I have so arranged my practice and remedies that I can treat patients at a distance, sending the remedies by express, and conducting the treatment by letters, on the receipt of a full statement of the condition of the patient, with all the symptoms. GIFT ENTERPRISES.
IMPORTANT TO THE PUBLIC.

AMERICAN GIFT BOOK HOUSE,
No. 293 Broadway, April 16, 1858.

The bogus gift enterprises are broken up. The genuine institutions stand firmer than before. The tares have been separated from the wheat, and the public, I hope, distinguishes between them. As the agent and representative of the American Gift Book House No. 293 Broadway, an institution known in this City and throughout the United States to have lived up to the engagements of its circulars and advertisements, I beg to state that its business will be continued, and presents distributed with the books sold as usual. The transactions of the establishment infringe no law, and cannot be legally interrupted.

THE FIRST OF MAY.

The first of May approaches,
When bed bugs, fleas and roaches,
Their noxious columns muster.
The rat, too, then encroaches,
The mouse, sly plunderer, poaches,
Putting ladies in a fluster;
But thy magic powder, LYON,
Is the food that insects die on.
Mice and rats, too,
By the pills, which we rely on,
Are killed to the last scion,
Without ca's, too.

MEDICAL.

THE TALENT OF THE MOST EMINENT EUROPEAN ARTISTS

Is employed in illustrating the new edition of that practical Medical Work,

HUMAN FRAILTY;
OR, PHYSIOLOGICAL RESEARCHES,
JUST ISSUED FROM THE PRESS.

It describes the causes and effects of all diseases of a delicate nature; it contains copious instructions for the perfect restoration of those who are prevented by impediments from entering into the married state, and for the permanent cure of all diseases arising from imprudences, with observations on the direful results of early abuse; also a professional dissertation, illustrating the results of chemical tests, and examination of the spermatoza by the patentee's newly-constructed microscope, with powerful lenses.

Price 25 cents. Sent free of postage to any part of the country.

This invaluable work may be obtained, as well as the Triesemar, from Dr. BARROW, No. 157 Prince-st., few blocks west of Broadway, New-York. To be consulted as usual, from 11 A. M. till 2 P. M., and from 4 till 8 in the evening.

COD LIVER OIL JELLY,
THE DIFFICULTY AT LAST OVERCOME.

If taken in time sure to do good. Approved by all the most eminent physicians. A preparation of the pure oil, with no disagreeable taste or smell. The undersigned has succeeded in solving the problem, and has practically answered the question. How Cod Liver Oil can be made palatable. This Jelly can be received without a qualm by the most delicate stomach. Sold by all respectable druggists in the City. Principal depôt No. 111 Houston-st., New-York. W. A. WALTERS, Manufacturer.

DR. MAGNIN'S LUCINA CORDIAL, OR ELIXIR OF LOVE.—From the earliest ages stimulants have been resorted to as a means of reviving the energies of Nature. Of this fact, both sacred and profane history assure us. But the great difficulty has been to find an exhilarant which would produce the desired effect continuously, and entail no subsequent depression. This grand desideratum, sought for by every physician from the time of Galen to the present day, is accomplished at last! The LUCINA CORDIAL restores and permanently invigorates the broken-down system; nay, more, it replaces natural weakness with energy and strength. The desponding it revives the feeble it endows with vigor; and the cheerfulness and strength which it restores or creates, it also preserves. To the sickly wife it imparts that degree of vital force necessary to the crowning joy and great object of matrimony. To the debilitated husband it gives the nervous and muscular energy which characterizes manhood. In all cases of nervous diseases, low spirits, indigestion, liver complaint, indisposition to mental exertion, lassitude, emaciation, impotence, &c.—in fact, in all complaints, acute and chronic, which depress and weigh down the mind and body, it is an absolute, infallible specific. Ladies of delicate constitution subject to those derangements peculiar to the feeble of their sex, will obtain immediate relief from its use.

Persons wishing the Lucina Cordial, by sending a remittance to Dr. MAGNIN, No. 203 Fulton-st., New-York, or to E. FLINT, druggist corner of 9th-av., and 28th-st., can have it safely packed and sent to any part of the world. Price $3 per bottle, or two bottles for $5.

RICORD'S, VELPEAU'S, CIVIALE'S, ACTON'S CURLING'S, and the Venereal Hospital Practice, of Paris and London, by Dr. LARMONT. As some persons afflicted with Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Strictures, Primary and Constitutional Syphilis, Nervous Debility, Seminal Emissions, Impotency, &c., may not be aware of the fact, he takes this medium of informing them that he is the only graduate in this City who is exclusively treating and curing those diseases, and whose connection with the European hospitals enables him to adopt the latest and most radical treatment, curing the oldest and most severe cases, at No. 82 Mercer-st., corner of Spring, opposite St. Nicholas Hotel, from 11 A. M. till 8 P. M., except Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, till 5 P. M. only. The Doctor's MEDICAL ADVISER AND MARRIAGE GUIDE, nearly 400 pages, 100 picture illustrations, is $1. Sold and mailed also by TOWNSEND, No. 222 Broadway, New-York. It gives the advertised medicines. It should be seen by the afflicted, before adopting any treatment, as it fully exposes the charlatans infesting this and other cities.

We commend Dr. LARMONT to the afflicted.—Courrier des Etats Unis, Staats Zeitung, Day Book, Atlas, &c.

None genuine, without the fac simile of CURTIS & PERKINS, New-York, on the outside wrapper. Sold by dealers in medicine everywhere. Price only 25 cents per bottle.

BARNES & PARK, Wholesale Agents for New-York.

DR. WATSON HAS FOR A LONG SERIES of years confined his attention to diseases of a certain class, in which he has treated a vast number of cases without an instance of failure. The remedies are mild, and there is no interruption to business or change of diet. Separate consulting rooms.

Dr. WATSON'S WORK, THE CAUSE AND CURE, is the only one which clearly explains the nature and mode of treatment of the venereal disease in its different forms: also Spermatorrhœa or Seminal Weakness, and Premature Exhaustion—the result of early indiscretion, excess, or other causes. Anatomical plates of a superior kind, and drawings of every form of disease. Price $1. No. 55 Walker-st., a few doors west of Broadway.

$1,000 FORFEITED AND NO CHARGE UNLESS CURED.—Dr. HUNTER'S Red Drop cures when regular treatment of other physicians and all other remedies fail. It is your only reliance for a thorough cure in certain diseases. No. 3 Division-st., the only place now so well known for the very many extraordinary cures it has performed, without diet or hindrance from business, when all other remedies only drive the disease into the blood—$1 only. This secures the patient from secondary attacks, and is the only remedy on earth that does it.

FRIDAY, April 16—P. M.

The steamship Africa, from Liverpool, Saturday, April 3, arrived at this port early this forenoon. The market accounts are only one day later than by the previous steamer, the Easter holidays intervening to suspend business for the remainder of the week. The whole budget of news by this arrival is dull and indifferent rather than particularly unfavorable. The decline in Cotton is a repetition of the market report by the City of Washington, when Orleans Middlings had already fallen to 6⅞d., as against 7d. the week before. The easier rate for Consols is about ⅛@¼ ₱ cent. The India Loan, bearing 4 ₱ cent., had been awarded at an average of about 98 ₱ cent. The London Times reports that:

> "The minimum price fixed by the India house was 97, and the tenders at and above that point amounted, in the aggregate to £4,800,000. They ranged from 97 to 102, two or three persons having offered the latter price for some moderate sums. It is believed that the average will prove to be about 98. There were some large offers under 97, including one for £50,000 at 96½, and one for £200,000 at £96 12s. As soon as the adjudication of the £4,800,000 had taken place the new security was negotiated in the Stock Exchange, and numerous transactions were effected at 98@98¼, the final quotation being 98. Many persons were anxious to be allowed to tender for the remaining £200,000 after the minimum terms had been announced, but the India Company declined, for the present, to entertain any further offers. The first payment of 20 ₱ cent. will be due on Thursday next, the 8th inst."

Advices had been received in London of our (temporarily) low Exchanges, and the Africa brings in return $320,000 in Gold, to be succeeded by some further sums by the next steamers. As the rates soon turned on this side, the whole importation of coin will probably be within $1,000,000. There was a fair business in some few of the American Stocks. New-York Central shares, 82½. Illinois Central, 92@92½, leaving off buyers at these rates. The Paris Bourse was dull, without much change in the quotation of the Rente. The Bank of Holland had reduced the rate of interest to 4 ₱ cent. The half-monthly Oriental steamers are carrying out only $250,000@$350,000 in Silver per trip, against four or five millions this time last year. The Gold receipts in London were light for the week, and the Bank shows a slight decline in Specie. There was a partial inquiry for discounts, in preparation for the 4th April payments at the Bank, but money was very plenty at from 2½ to 3 ₱ cent. ₱ annum. The return from the Bank of England for the week ending the 31st of March gives the following results when compared with the previous week:

Public deposits	£7,630,763	Decrease	£62,509
Other deposits	12,991,054	Decrease	583,727
Rest	3,897,615	Increase	3,960
Government securities	9,901,993	Unchanged.
Other securities	16,857,437	Increase	51,533
Notes unemployed	12,329,635	Decrease	684,070

The amount of notes in circulation is £19,950,750 being an increase of £643,725, and the stock of bullion in both departments is £18,628,917, showing a decrease of £104,898, when compared with the preceding return.

A letter from London, April 2, reports:

> "It will be gratifying to the friends of Messrs. GEO. PEABODY & Co., to know that that firm yesterday repaid to the Bank of England in full all the money borrowed of that institution during the crisis in November last, although it would not have become due till August next. At the same time Messrs. PEABODY cancelled the remainder of the credit unused, and thus entirely released all the securities given by them to the Bank, when the aid was considered requisite."

At our own Stock Exchange this forenoon the depression in prices noticed at the close of business yesterday, was followed up by some moderate sales in New-York Central, New-York and Erie and Reading, at the lowest points then made, and in several of the Western stocks at a further concession of about 1 ₱ cent. The foreign news was held by some parties to be at least negatively unfavorable; but, after the adjournment of the early Board, the more careful reading of the newspaper advices and letters by the Africa, and the scarcity of most of the active stocks on the Street, led to a reaction in the bids, and at the Second Board the recovery was full 1 ₱ cent. on nearly the whole share list. Erie was done at 24; New-York Central, 87⅜@½; Rock Island, 73; Michigan Southern, 23½; Reading 45½, and Hudson River 29 ₱ cent. There were liberal calls for Illinois Central Bonds at 88⅝@88⅞, and the stock stood as yesterday, 91 ₱ cent. The Company are now paying 20 ₱ cent. on the unfunded debt under the assessment of last October, and a good many of the creditors readily accept a script obligation payable 1st July, 1859, at 95 ₱ cent. for the remainder, in preference to the shorter periodical installments to be paid under the assignment. The shares of the Milwaukee and Mississippi Company are steadier this afternoon at 28½ ₱ cent. The general market left off firm, without any special movement in particular stocks, though the short interest in New-York and Erie, and the recent large reduction in the amount of stock subject to the control of the brokers, impart unusual elasticity to the dealings. The advance established since this day week is about $3 50 the share.

In Money affairs we have nothing new to report. The few transactions in English Exchange for the Southampton steamer to-morrow were on the basis of 109 ₱ cent. for choice bills.

The Michigan Southern Controversy.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

It will be recollected that on the 18th March a circular of the Michigan Southern and Northern Indiana Railroad Company was issued "By order of the Board," requesting stockholders who could not attend the approaching election to send their proxies to the office "either with or without the name of the person whom they desired to have represent them, and stating that if any proxies were returned in blank, the "Board of Directors would designate" some one to vote upon them; that, a few days subsequently, a minority or counter-circular was issued by Mr. JOHN B. JERVIS and two associates, requesting the proxies to be sent to them; that thereupon a correspondence ensued between sundry stockholders and Mr. WALCOTT, the Treasurer of the Company, which developed the fact that the Directors who had voted for the issuing of the regular circular were large shareholders, holding in the aggregate about 2,000 shares, while at the same time Mr. JERVIS and his two associate had standing in their names but 18 shares, as reported by the Treasurer, or 68 shares as claimed by Mr. JERVIS.

To Mr. WALCOTT's published letter, giving these facts, Mr. JERVIS replied, and in doing so, volunteered a personal assault upon myself and friends. Dragged thus, without cause, into this controversy which Mr. JERVIS is waging against his own Board, I was forced by a decent self-respect to a public reply; in which, while showing the injustice of his attack, I studiously avoided any imputation upon his motives, and all statements that could be deemed personally and designedly offensive.

To this letter Mr. JERVIS rejoins in nearly two columns of Tuesday's Evening Post, and, I regret to say, in a manner and a spirit utterly unworthy of the position he occupies.

All will bear witness that this controversy has not been of my seeking. I have not yet been able to see how the interest of the stockholders and the prosperity of the Company were to be promoted by coarse wrangling between former managers, as to the precise share of responsibility which should attach to each. Such discussions originate ordinarily in private feeling; and when they are unnecessarily thrust before the public, it is safe to assume that the ruling motive is anything but disinterested patriotism. Entertaining these views, I have long submitted in silence to most unjust misrepresentations, rather than, by publicly noticing and exposing them, to run the hazard of exciting controversies which could do the Company no possible good, and which might seriously embarrass its operations. But when its President, irritated by his inability to rally more than two out of twelve associate directors to his support, saw fit to vent his spleen upon me in public circulars and letters, I felt at liberty, in self-defence, to fall back upon the facts of the case.

Mr. JERVIS' last letter is a remarkable production. Its whole scope and aim are to show that he is in no wise responsible, although he held most of the offices; that two or three individual directors were "the managing men;" and that their schemes were "hurried through" the Board, "in a way that gave very little opportunity to judge of, or discuss, the subject." In short, that the Directors, as a body, were mere puppets in the hands of two or three of their number, ready to ratify "their plans," whether right or wrong; and that, too, in a Board embracing at different times such men as GEORGE BLISS, the late Governor MARCY, CHAS. BUTLER, HUGH WHITE, Governor BARRY, JOHN WILKINSON, D. B. ST. JOHN, E. D. MORGAN, THOMAS BARRON, HAMILTON WHITE, WM. B. WELLES and others equally respectable!

If this supposition, instead of being, as it is, a libel upon those gentlemen, were really true, how could Mr. JERVIS sit quietly for six years as a Director, and three years as President in such a Board? And how far would it go towards showing his peculiar fitness for the office of President of the Company, if we should admit all that he tries to prove—that during the entire time he occupied that position, he was utterly without influence? Is such the material of which leaders should be made?

But Mr. JERVIS claims that the "majority" which authorized the regular circular did so "by a species of sharp parliamentary practice," and that although six gentlemen voted for it, "they represented the views of but five of the thirteen directors." Gentlemen of ordinary intelligence are presumed to know what they mean when they vote; and when six directors record their names in favor of a proposition, it is assuming something to allege that they "represent the views of but five." This is, however, an internal quarrel which the directors must settle among themselves; but if it is true that a majority of the Board are prepared to sustain Mr. JERVIS, why is it that he is so unwilling to trust them with the proxies?

Mr. JERVIS excuses himself for assailing me, upon the ground that he supposed myself and friends were soliciting proxies, in answer to the circular of the majority of the Board. If as a stockholder I prefer to have my property managed by those in whom I have confidence, and if that preference is for large shareholders as against those who hold little or no stock, is the President called upon to protect the interest of the corporation by indulging in personal abuse, and by publishing columns of calumny?

I shall treat Mr. JERVIS and his statements with all the respect to which they are entitled. I shall not, however, be drawn into irrelevant issues; neither shall I imitate him by making random assertions, unsupported by proof, and which would, therefore, be reduced to a question of recollection or of veracity between him and me. A large portion of his letter is taken up with statements resting only in recollection. He undertakes to tell what I did or said, or what was said or done by himself or by other members of the Board, at different periods, and upon various matters, which arose during an association of seven years, not one of which pretended acts or sayings is verified by the Company's records, or by any paper, document, or official evidence in its possession! I must decline to bandy phrases with Mr. JERVIS upon any such basis. Of his allegations, some are in relation to matters which have no bearing upon the pending issue: as when he says that he made estimates "which were objected to by Mr. LITCHFIELD as too high, and likely to prevent subscriptions," as if that was a proper matter to influence his official action, or as if any opinion of an individual Director would justify him in putting forth an unreliable estimate!

Some are entire misrepresentations: as when he pretends that I "evaded his inquiries" as to certain stock, of whom it was bought, and what was paid for it; for all that information was spread out upon the Company's books and papers, which were always accessible to him, and could have been supplied by any clerk in the office!

Some never had any foundation in fact; they are mere idle fancies, "as baseless as the fabric of a vision," as when he states that in December, 1854, I applied to him to advocate paying me $25,000 "for extra services in raising money for the Company:" The records and proceedings of the Company make no allusion to any such application. I have inquired of several of the old directors, who concur in saying that they never heard anything of it, and I aver that nothing of the kind ever occurred. As this is one of "their plans" which Mr. JERVIS takes great credit to himself for having defeated, perhaps he will be kind enough to furnish the proof upon which he bases his statements. With these remarks I dismiss all those petty insinuations, unsupported by proof, which form the staple of his letter; insinuations as unfounded as they are unworthy of any fair mind, and which can be accounted for only by extreme malice or extreme credulity.

But Mr. JERVIS makes some statements which we can test by written evidence. Let us see how far they tally with the record.

In my former letter I intimated but did not distinctly state that Mr. JERVIS' estimates as Chief Engineer had been considerably exceeded by the actual cost.

He takes up and dwells upon this point in detail, and in doing so attempts to show that an estimate furnished by him in October, 1855, of the amount required to finish all the Company's works then in progress "was a pretty close estimate." He adds that he cannot "now find it," and that he "must have regarded it as a very informal paper." Very likely he did; but the Directors called for it as the basis of their action; it is spread at length upon their records under date of Oct. 11, 1855, and it estimated at $712,416, the total amount required on the first of that month to complete all the works of the Company then in progress. These facts appear in a formal report of the Company, dated 16th September last, then entered upon the minutes and published in some of the City papers; which report also states that from Oct. 1, 1855, to Sept. 1, 1857, the Company had expended $1,523,884 for work, labor and materials, besides $253,722 for interest, making a total of $1,777,606 paid up to that date for the work which in October, 1855, it had been estimated could be completed for $712,416. Mr. JERVIS well knows that this wide discrepancy attracted the attention of the Board under Mr. WILKINSON's administration, and that he was then called upon by the President at a meeting of the Directors to explain it; and yet now he has lost that estimate! If I desired to pursue this matter, I might refer to his original estimate for the Middle Ground or Toledo Station of less than $300,000, and compare it with his recent report, showing an actual cost of $890,699; or I might quote from his published report in 1853, estimating "the cost of the Goshen line, including stations and rolling stock, at $2,500,000," and compare it with his report of last month, showing the actual cost, exclusive of interest, at $3,687,219. But I do not desire to enlarge upon these or other similar topics; I merely wish to remind Mr. JERVIS that other members of the Board have not held any monopoly of the privilege of making mistakes.

Mr. JERVIS states, without qualification, that "a considerable part of the rolling stock, and all the rails, were contracted for by other parties" than himself. While I write I have before me two contracts for the purchase of "rails" to the amount of 11,000 tons, amounting, at prices then current, to some $700,000 or $800,000, and both executed in behalf of the Company by Mr. JERVIS, as member of a Committee or as President. If it is so easy to be mistaken in one's recollection as to matters of such magnitude, and which were reduced to writing at the time, does not Mr. JERVIS begin to think that his memory may be at fault in minor matters also, in relation to which there can be no written evidence?

He professes to have found in 1854 "pretty large sums due from ELISHA C. LITCHFIELD, E. B. LITCHFIELD, JOHN STRYKER, the Terre Haute and Alton Road, and sundry brokers;" but he omits to state that he was himself indebted to the Company at the same time, and for the same reason, as the other gentlemen named by him. This Company, as a mode of assisting the Chicago and Mississippi Road, had purchased some of its stock at 50 cents on the dollar. That contract was made during my absence. Subsequently Mr. JERVIS, Mr. STRYKER, and other directors and stockholders, purchased a portion of the stock at the price paid for it, the Company agreeing to accept the purchasers' notes at four and six months; and those, I presume, were "the sums due" to which Mr. JERVIS refers. Why did he overlook his own notes, and those of other directors and stockholders, to single out Mr. STRYKER and my brother? I believe that all the directors who took part in the purchase paid their notes, and—lost their money. But they did it in an honest effort to benefit the Company whose President now makes this unfair reference to a transaction which four years ago he approved, and in which he participated.

The Terre Haute and Alton, and the Cleveland and Toledo Railroad Companies had offices in the same building as this Company, and it was a common practice for each Company to lend upon interest to either of the others, or to brokers, upon competent security, any of their unemployed funds. Such were "the sums due" from "brokers" and from the Terre Haute and Alton Road to which Mr. JERVIS refers; all of which sums were refunded with interest some four years ago.

Other "sums" were advanced to the Terre Haute Company in 1854, and invested in its stock by virtue of a resolution of the Board, adopted when Mr. JERVIS was present, and in pursuance of a contract for business connections made by a Committee of which he was a member, and of which I was not. The same Committee contracted with the Wabash Valley Road for the use of the Middle Ground Station at Toledo, and the contracts thus made with both of those corporations were executed by Mr. JERVIS in behalf of this Company. Subsequently, in November, 1854, this Company, at a meeting of the Board when Mr. JERVIS was present, authorized the sale to the Terre Haute Company of sundry notes of HENRY DWIGHT, Jr., sundry shares of stock of the Chicago and Mississippi Road, and of a claim for $32,500, held against the Oswego and Indiana Plank Road Company. During all this time Mr. JERVIS was a Director of the Terre Haute Road, and as such his name appears upon the obligation given by that Company upon this purchase. It cannot, therefore, be pretended that he objected to these transactions, and there was no other in relation to which he can claim that there was any "sum due" from the Terre Haute Company.

Deprived of facts to justify his assaults, Mr. JERVIS is but the more prolific in words; and he spreads "financiering" through his article as loosely as if he was engaged in making an estimate! It reminds one of an unruly boy, who, powerless to gratify his malice, retreats to a safe distance, and employs himself in making up faces! Reiterating that only a portion of the expenditures for construction have been disbursed by him, he has "no doubt" that I "can show where the balance" of the expenditure has gone; as if by innuendo he would, if he could, induce somebody to believe in a wrong which he had not the courage to charge; and yet the ink is hardly dry upon the Company's report issued last month, signed by him as President, and embracing his statement as Chief Engineer, which furnishes the explanation!

As Chief Engineer he says, that "the amount actually paid for the work is about four and a half million of dollars below what appears on the books of the general office."

The Directors in their report, say: To make up this difference, we draw from the Treasurer's books as follows:

Losses on sale of bonds from June, 1850, to Sept. 1, 1857	$1,054,553 30
Losses on sales of stock of the Company from December, 1856, to Sept. 1, 1857	319,531 06
Interest, commissions and brokerage from 1850 to Dec. 31, 1857, including coupons paid upon bonds issued for construction of the various lines until they were severally opened for use	1,249,029 56
Steamboat charters	172,568 80
Sundry entries, including part expenses of New-York office, salaries and miscellaneous items, during seven years	1,547,602 63
Total	$4,373,285 35

He states that when he left the Presidency the stock and debt were but $11,000,000, and that in two years and a half they rose to $18,000,000.

The Company's first report, made after Mr. JERVIS left the Presidency, dated the 12th of October, 1855, (just five days before I left the country,) stated the stock and debts of all kinds at $13,248,124 on the 1st of August preceding. On the 17th of October, 1855, my charge of the Company's finances terminated, and has never been resumed. The next report brought the accounts up to $17,705,070 on the 1st of May, 1857, (just six days after I had resumed my official connection with the Company as a Director,) thus showing an increase of about $4,500,000 in the intervening twenty-one months.

During nearly all that time I was in Europe, having, as Mr. JERVIS knows, no more connection with or control over the Company's operations here than the man in the moon. During the same period Mr. WILKINSON was President, Mr. HOPKINS Secretary, Mr. FORD assistant and acting Treasurer, with the exception of about three months, when he was disabled by sickness from discharging the duties, and they were performed by Mr. ELISHA C. LITCHFIELD. I entertain no doubt that these gentlemen can account for every shilling which passed through their hands during the time in question. But it is an appropriate illustration of Mr. JERVIS' idea of fairness, to talk through two columns as if all these expenditures were wrong because he was not President, and as if I should be held responsible for them, when I had nothing in the world to do with them.

Not in self-defence—for I scorn to notice with such a view an insinuation which no man will convert into a charge and father—but in justice to my subordinates, my associates, and my successors in the administration of the Company's finances, it is proper to say that, from the Company's earliest history, the Directors have caused stated and systematic examinations to be made, by a Committee of their number, of all the books and accounts kept in the Treasurer's office. No one is better aware of this fact than Mr. JERVIS, who, in his report in July, 1854, and after the happening of all the items which now constitute his bill of complaint, refers to this fact, and states that "in all cases the result of these examinations has demonstrated the accuracy and the perfect fidelity of the accounts and books of the Company."

These examinations were continued, by my request, down to the moment when I left the Company's service in October, 1855, and the reports of the several Committees, verifying the books and accounts, are to be found at the Company's office.

But I beg to inquire what title has Mr. JERVIS to talk so much about other people's accounts? Conceding to him honesty of purpose in all his dealings with the Company, I do not consider him any more honest than each and every one of the other Directors who sat around the Council Board prior to October, 1855, when I left. I do not, therefore, recognize in him any right to assume for himself a superior order of integrity, or a higher standard of morality, than is to be conceded to others; and he never made a broader mistake in his wildest estimate than he does now, if he supposes that he occupies a position which justifies him in dealing out indiscriminate suspicion and abuse against other officers, past or present, of the Company.

The financial officers, whose sole privilege it was to pay, while it was his daily vocation to contract, debts, in all cases executed bonds with sureties for the faithful discharge of their duties; and, as already stated, their accounts have from time to time been examined and audited by authority of the Board. Mr. JERVIS admits that millions of dollars have been handled by him as Chief Engineer. He gave no bonds; up to October, 1855, his accounts with the Company had not been audited, and I am informed by those who have succeeded me that they remain yet unadjusted. He talks about the amount which has "passed through" his hands, as if it were an ascertained fact—while as yet the Company only knows the amount he has received, and relies upon his statement—unaudited—for the amount he has disbursed. The Company's works were pronounced complete months ago; its last report announces that the "Construction Account is closed;" and yet the Board, in the very report stating that fact, comment upon the "complicated and anomalous way" in which the construction accounts have been kept, which, they say, have been under charge of the Chief Engineer, "in books under his exclusive supervision, rendering those accounts, as they were adjusted from time to time, to the New-York office. These returns," they add, "were sometimes delayed for a long period, rendering it impracticable for the Treasurer to state an accurate account of the expenditures at particular dates. And even now there is a part of the expenditure for construction which has not yet been presented to the New-York office to be charged to that account."

Of the entire organization of this Company, the Engineer Department is the only one which has disbursed millions without check and without settlement. Taking for granted that whenever his accounts are finally audited, they will be found to be substantially correct, I say that until that event happens, it will be good taste at least for Mr. JERVIS to suspend his indiscriminate and uncharitable animadversions.

Mr. JERVIS says that I "must have been fully aware for more than three years past," that "we entertained different views of business." I am happy to find one statement the truth of which I freely admit, for it was just "three years ago" this month when the Board made a change in the office of President of the Company, after having tried Mr. JERVIS for some years in that post. By that action, in which I concurred, he says that he "considered himself defeated." That was the precise date when his eyes were opened; up to that time he had been "anxious to think well" of me, and had occasionally "voted for me." Since then he would not for the world commit such an enormity!

I am not aware that, during an intercourse of seven years, an unkind word ever passed between Mr. JERVIS and myself, until he saw fit, without provocation, to drag my name into the controversy which he is waging against the Board of Directors. I take the public to witness that I have acted entirely in self-defence, and only when a decent self-respect prohibited my remaining silent. The positions which Mr. JERVIS and myself occupy are radically different. He is a candidate eagerly canvassing for a reëlection to office; I seek no such distinction. Never having been chosen a director except by a unanimous vote, and never having held an executive office in the Company by my own procurement or desire, but always against my wishes, and sometimes against my interests. I could not stoop to engage in a partisan contest, and electioneer for votes to place myself in power.

As an individual, I have repelled unjust assaults; as a stockholder, I have a right to an opinion as to the management of the Company. The first element of success is to secure directors who will rise above all personal feelings and cooperate in good faith and with entire harmony in the effort to restore the Company to its former position. That is the work which the stockholders desire to see accomplished. They do not wish their property to be made the sport of contending parties, nor their interests jeopardized by the hot pursuit of private quarrels. They believe that their officers can render more service by taking care of the road than by ransacking its former history to find material for strife. They have the intelligence to see who of the present Board have originated and are fomenting quarrels, and they have the power at the approaching election to apply a suitable remedy.

The first entirely successful and thoroughly practical application of the elegant, healthful and economical system of heating through the medium of hot water.

WE HAVE THOROUGHLY TESTED THESE HEATERS in various situations, and find them entirely efficient in the coldest weather. They are very durable, have few water joints, DO NOT LEAK, NEED NO REPAIRS, ARE EASILY MANAGED, DO NOT SHRINK OR INJURE THE FURNITURE AND WOOD-WORK OF THE BUILDING, AND CAN NEVER SET THEM ON FIRE, and possess many advantages over long circuitous coils of steam-pipes or radiators.

They may be seen in operation at our warerooms. ESTIMATES AND PLANS for warming and ventilating, either by hot water, steam or warm air, made out at short notice. GEO. L. CANNON, No. 406 Broadway.
